FDR Orders Italian Consulates Closed; Nazis Ignore Message on Robin Moor

Officials Told To Leave U. S.

All Allegations Are Ordered Rejected By Welles

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The United States today ordered all Italian consuls in the United States to leave the country by July 15.

Simultaneously a copy of President Roosevelt's message to congress denouncing the sinking of the U. S. freighter, Robin Moor, was despatched to Germany.

In a third move, this government also flatly rejected the German accusations against American consular agents in German-controlled territory in Europe.

All three of the steps were announced by the state department.

In requesting the closing of all Italian consular establishments in the United States, as well as all agencies in this country connected with the Italian government, Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles, in a note to the Italian ambassador, said:

"In the opinion of the government of the United States it is obvious that the continued function of Italian consular establishments in territory of the United States would serve no desirable purpose."

Welles added that he was directed by the president to request that the Italian government "promptly close all Italian consular establishments within United States territory and remove therefrom all Italian consular officers, agents, clerks and employes of Italian nationality."

"I am likewise directed," Welles added, "to request the closing of all agencies in this country connected with the Italian government, together with the dessation of their activities, and, furthermore, the removal of all Italian nationals in any way connected with organizations of the Itlaian government in the United States, with the exception of its duly ac-

Ordinary Germans Fear Rupture In Relations

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—The Berlin press today still was without a word of comment on the requested closing of United States consulates in Germany but the man on the street nevertheless was worried and asking whether history would repeat itself.

The older generation, which remembers the effects of United States entry into the World war, especially looked toward the future with pessimism and at the very least abandoned hope that the conflict would be terminated within a reasonable time should the present tension lead to a final rupture of relations between the U. S. and Germany and should the U. S. openly join Britain.

While the controlled press thus ignored the most important news occupying the minds of the people, Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, foreign office mouthpiece, asserted that Columbus Attorney Calls for Gambling Investigation.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Attorney John F. Seidel today asked the Franklin county common pleas court for a special grand jury to investigate gambling in Columbus and Franklin county.

The court was asked to name Attorney William B. Bartels, former assistant U. S. district attorney, as a special prosecutor to conduct the investigation.

Seidel made his proposition to Judge Cecil J. Randall after the latter dismissed charges against Robert H. Warner, a slot machine operator, who was accused of "disturbing the peace" by smashing eight competitors' machines with a hammer.

British Reveal Prinz Eugen Damaged In Fight.

LONDON—(AP)—The 10,000-ton German Cruiser Prinz Eugen was hit and badly damaged by a salvo from the 14-inch guns of the British Battleship Prince of Wales before it escaped to Brest in the great naval battle in which the German Battleship Bismarck was sunk, it was learned today.

The salvo was said to have set the new German cruiser, raiding partner of the 35,000-ton Bismarck, afire 'like a ruddy fireworks show."

Radio Workers Stay Away From Jobs At Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— A strike called by the American Federation of Radio Artists (AFL) against radio station WKRC of Cincinnati continued today. The union wants a closed shop and high wage minimum.

Hulbert Taft, jr., general manager of the station, said four of the station's 17 regular employes walked out.

4 INJURED IN MISHAP HERE

Victims Hurt In Early Morning Crash On Bowman Street; 2 Bucyrus Boys Hurt.

Four persons were injured early today when two autos collided at Harker and Bowman streets. William Earl Liggett, 51 Railroad street, suffered a fractured pelvis.

Liggett was injured when a car driven by his brother, Jerry S. Liggett of Butler, collided with another driven by John Schag of Shelby shortly after 5 a. m. today.

The drivers of both cars and Miss Georgia Shilcser of Mifflin, who was also riding with Liggett, suffered cuts and bruises. They were treated at the General hospital and released. The Mansfield man, however, was admitted and his condition was reported as "fair" at noon.

In another accident one mile west of Bucyrus on U. S. Route 30-N last night, two youths were injured when the car in which they were riding collided head-on with a machine driven by C. J. Borress of Sidney.

James Howard, 17, is in City hospital with a fractured arm, and Robert Carle, 18, is suffering from chest injuries.

Authorities said the accident occurred when young Howard attempted to pass a truck. Borress was not injured.

Heavy Mist Over Channel Aids Pilots In One of Biggest Aerial Attacks of War.

(By United Press)

FOLKESTONE, Eng.—The Royal Air Force battered the French invasion coast hour after hour today in what some persons believed was the biggest daylight attack of the war.

The attack began in the early morning hours when the sun shone brilliantly although the channel waters were obscured by mist.

Squadron after squadron of bombers raced across the narrow channel, dumping their heavy bomb loads while RAF fighters ranged high over the channel and the southeast coast, on patrol against reprisal attacks by the Luftwaffe.

(In London authoritative sources said 10 German planes were shot down by the RAF in the course of its big offensive sweep of the French invasion coast.)

The British attack reached a climax during the afternoon when two waves of bombers, with a strong fighter escort, dashed off into the haze toward France. As the first wave was returning to its home bases, a second wave was seen flying across the channel.

The sky seemed as full of planes as it was during the great air battles of last autumn, but this time the planes were all British.

The RAF fighters flew at great altitude and patrolled over almost

Army Reports on Test of Air Photography In New York.

NEW YORK —(INS)— A spectacular test of army aerial photographic equipment with flash bombs dropped over New York City and its surrounding waters today was described as highly successful.

Part of defense experiments with night photography, the test was made by Lieut. Col. George W. Goddard, head of the photographic laboratories at Wright Field, Dayton, in a plane from Mitchel field.

The flash gombs, each with a type of small parachute, were dropped from an altitude of 8,000 feet, giving off a bright yellow light and a dull boom. The pictures taken were of New York harbor defenses, the East river bridges and the Brooklyn navy yard.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The war department today asked President Roosevelt to retain the national guard and reserve officers now on active duty beyond the one year of service for which they were originally called up.

The department stated it had recommended to the chief executive that steps be taken to obtain authority from congress to keep the national guardsmen and reservists in service.

"Legislation is, of course, required," the department pointed out, "and the final decision is a matter of public policy which must rest with the president and congress."

Some 70 men of Mansfield's Battery D, 134th Field Artillery, Ohio National Guard, will be affected if the war department's request to keep guardsmen on duty longer than the originally prescribed year is approved.

Battery D is now in training at Camp Shelby, Miss. It was among the first national guard units called to active duty.

Sure It's Warm, Today's The First Day of Summer

Two-Thirds of Nation In Grip of Heat Wave Which Sends Mercury Soaring to 87 Degrees Here.

Summer will arrive at 2:34 p. m. today—longest day of the year—on the crest of a heat wave that is sweeping two-thirds of the nation. Stage for the summer solstice, first day of summer to you, was set by the weatherman yesterday when the thermometer shot to 87 degrees in Mansfield.

The "fair and warmer" forecast for today lived up to its predictions and before noon the temperature had reached 82 degrees.

No relief may be expected before early next week, the weather bureau said, when a cool mass of air is expected to move in from the north Pacific coast or western Canada, bringing scattered showers.

The current heat wave is attributed by the U. S. Weather Bureau to a warm mass of dry air suspended over east and central states west of the Rocky Mountains. Thermometer readings were above normal in that area but clung to average levels in the south and far west.

Boston reported 92 degrees, highest temperature this year, and Cleveland reported 92, an all-time record for the date. The reading at Cincinnati stood at 95.

Official arrival of summer ended a spring season of freakish weather figured by a hot spell and drought in May that had farmers and truck garden owners worried about their crops.

The rainfall in June however was a boon to fields and gardens and saved crops that might otherwise have been spoiled.

Bricker Approves Plan Which Shifts Senatorial Areas.

Gov. John W. Bricker today joined two other members of the state reapportionment board in approving a redistricting plan that will place Richland county in a new senatorial district with Ashland, Crawford, Wyandot and Seneca counties.

The plan, expected to give Democrats a majority in the state senate for the next 10 years, was set up five weeks ago by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson and Secretary of State John E. Sweeney, both Democrats. Gov. Bricker refused to sign then, asserting that he wanted "several minor errors" corrected.

Under the new plan, Richland county will be in the newly-created 29th-31st district which will include counties that are usually Democratic.

The county now is in the 27th-29th-31st district which will in- and Medina counties.

Although the Richland county grand jury returned 17 secret indictments two days ago, no warrants on the indictments had been turned over to Sheriff Frank E. Robinson today, and Prosecutor Harold Lutz said there was "no special hurry about serving them."

Lutz must prosecute the cases and defendants in the indictments are scheduled for arraignment at 9 a. m. Monday before Common pleas Judge C. H. Huston.

Secrecy surrounding any indictments that may have been returned by the grand jury in the Bellville morals case was maintained as Sheriff Robinson awaited the secret warrants from the clerk of courts. He must have the warrants before he can make arrests in the 17 cases.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — The State Utilities commission yesterday approved intrastate long distance telephone rate reductions that will save the Ohio Bell Telephone company customers approximately $345,000 annually.

The new rates will go into effect July 10, on the same rate of a reduction in interstate tolls announced June 4 by the Federal Communications commission. The reduction applies mainly to person-to-person calls.

Mansfield's State Guard to Be Mustered In Wednesday

First in its regiment to be mustered into service with the Ohio State Guard, Company F, Mansfield's unit in the new guard, will be inducted Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the state armory on Ashland road, Capt. Glenn L. Bierly, commander, announced today.

Bierly said that 53 men had already enlisted with the new company, which will be part of the Third Regiment, and that further enlistments were being held from 1 to 4 p. m. today at the armory.

He emphasized that enlistments would not be limited, saying that the physical examinations which will be held later would probably eliminate several enlistees. The company will have 50 guardsmen and three officers.

Bierly also announced that he had appointed a citizens' committee to arrange a civilian program to be held in connection with the mustering ceremony.

Serving on the committee will be R. B. Gardner, representing the American Legion in the Fifth Corps area; M. Earl Saltzgaber, citizens' committee for selectees; J. M. Wallace, Spanish War Veterans and Memorial association; W. J. Locke, mayor; Rev. Grover Swoyer, former Battery D member and a member of the Sons of American Revolution; and Clyde L. Myers, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the 37th Division association.

All Efforts to Communicate With Men Fail

Commander Says Rescue Workers Find No Indication of Life on Craft; Wreckage Hints Submersible Crushed on Sea Floor.

(By International News Service)

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.—Hope that any of thirty-three officers and men, trapped in the sunken U. S. navy submarine O-9, were still alive was virtually abandoned today.

Desperate efforts to communicate with the men, imprisoned on the ocean's floor at the tremendous depth of 440 feet below the water-surface, had failed, after salvage craft definitely located the ill-fated boat.

Rear Admiral Richard Edwards, commander of the submarine force of the Atlantic fleet, who is at the scene, said rescue workers have received no indication of life in the submarine.

Lieut. Elliot Olson, commander of the submarine Grayling, frankly stated his opinion that all aboard the O-9 are dead.

Divers were being sent down this morning in an attempt to examine the hull and devise means of raising the sunken submersible.

The tremendous depth, 440 feet, at which the O-9 is trapped, seemed to preclude any possibility that the divers will be able to get to the victims in time to bring them up alive.

Quantities of wreckage—cork, oil and decking—floated on the water above the spot where the O-9 went down, indicating that the submersible had been crushed.

Scene of the disaster was in the Isles of Shoals, 15 miles east of Portsmouth, and less than five miles from the spot where the submarine Squalus sank on May 23, 1939, with a loss of 26 lives.

The O-9, making deflection tests yesterday morning, dived below the surface and failed to re-appear. She was scheduled to remain down two hours, but at 8:36 this morning she passed the 24-hour mark beneath the waves.

Rear Admiral Edwards, who is aboard the rescue ship Falcon, one of the many vessels at the scene, this morning radioed the following message to the Portsmouth navy yard:

"Believed submarine (O-9) definitely located in 440 feet of water. Large quantities of cork, oil, air and decking sighted. Two grapnels attached. Will attempt to send diver when the Chewing (a rescue vessel) arrives with equipment.

Says Sub Unfit to Go Below

HOLYOKE, Mass. —(INS)— Convinced his son and all others aboard the submarine O-9 are lost, Francis P. Golden, father of Francis H. Golden, fireman second class, today was bitter in protests against the navy department order that sent them "to death in a leaky old sub."

The son, 19, enlisted in the navy a year ago with his parents' consent. He was to have been married next month to Miss Mary Cavanaugh, this city.

The father complained:

"That antiquated old sub was not fit to go below.

"My boy told me that two weeks ago Friday they submerged in only two feet of water and they found she had 19 leaks. My son told me that in the two-foot water test she was just barely submerged down at New London and that water poured into her right away.

"He also told me how it took them four days to come from Philadelphia to New London. The way he put it to me was like this: 'Dad, I could have walked from Philly quicker then we came'."

Enlisted Man Wrote Sub Misbehaved Badly

DEL NORTE, Colo. —(U.P.)— Charles L. Eagleton, 24, an enlisted man aboard the missing submarine O-9, wrote his father, Ola Eagleton, last week that "everything was wrong" with the submarine.

The elder Eagleton said his son described the O-9 as "misbehaving badly" during a test, but he added that "we have everything under control and it looks all right now."

CURB FOR REDS

Roosevelt Expected to Sign Bill Passed Yesterday.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — President Roosevelt was expected to place further restrictions on fifth column activities in this country within a few days by signing legislation giving him almost unlimited power over movements of all persons in or out of the United States.

Congressional action on the measure was completed in a few hours yesterday, and it is expected to reach the president's desk some time today or over the week-end.

The bill gives the president powers identical to those granted former President Woodrow Wilson during the World war, but makes them operative whenever two or more nations are involved in war. The World war statute stipulated that the powers could be exercised only in event the United States was a belligerent.

NEW YORK —(INS)— A spectacular test of army aerial photographic equipment with flash bombs dropped over New York City and its surrounding waters today was described as highly successful.

Part of defense experiments with night photography, the test was made by Lieut. Col. George W. Goddard, head of the photographic laboratories at Wright Field, Dayton, in a plane from Mitchel field.

The flash gombs, each with a type of small parachute, were dropped from an altitude of 8,000 feet, giving off a bright yellow light and a dull boom. The pictures taken were of New York harbor defenses, the East river bridges and the Brooklyn navy yard.

OK'S DISTRICT

Bricker Approves Plan Which Shifts Senatorial Areas.

Gov. John W. Bricker today joined two other members of the state reapportionment board in approving a redistricting plan that will place Richland county in a new senatorial district with Ashland, Crawford, Wyandot and Seneca counties.

The plan, expected to give Democrats a majority in the state senate for the next 10 years, was set up five weeks ago by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson and Secretary of State John E. Sweeney, both Democrats. Gov. Bricker refused to sign then, asserting that he wanted "several minor errors" corrected.

Under the new plan, Richland county will be in the newly-created 29th-31st district which will include counties that are usually Democratic.

The county now is in the 27th-29th-31st district which will include Medina counties.

BODY FOUND

Report Vassar Student Ended Life With Monoxide.

LEXINGTON, Mass.—(U.P.)—The body of Anne M. Greene of Cambridge, missing 19-year-old Vassar college sophomore, was found in an automobile in an isolated section of Lexington today. A medical examiner reported she had committed suicide by means of carbon monoxide.

Miss Greene had been the object of a search throughout the east since she drove away from her Cambridge home June 11 after leaving a suicide note.

PAYS TO DIE

EAST LIVERPOOL — (AP) — An unidentified middle aged man handed J. C. Orin, toll collector at the Newell bridge, a nickel saying: "This is the last time I'll ever pay." He walked to the center of the span and leaped 75 feet into the Ohio river.

DIES IN FIRE

Mother Perishes As She Tries To Rescue Daughters.

SHARON, Pa.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Pearl Doyle perished in a fire with her two daughters today when she attempted to rescue them from their blazing home near here.

Mrs. Doyle was trapped after arousing her husband and five sons and then attempting to rescue the two girls.

LEAP FROM TRUCK

WAYNESBURG, Pa. — (U.P.) — Harry Dick and Robert Brown, both of Toledo, O., escaped injury by jumping from their gasoline truck when it caught fire and exploded near here today. They were en route to Toledo from Farmington, W. Va.

LONG DISTANCE RATES APPROVED

Commission Puts O. K. On New Ohio Bell Schedule.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — The State Utilities commission yesterday approved intrastate long distance telephone rate reductions that will save the Ohio Bell Telephone company customers approximately $345 000 annually.

The new rates will go into effect July 10, on the same rate of a reduction in interstate tolls announced June 4 by the Federal Communications commission. The reduction applies mainly to person-to-person calls.

Enlisted Man Wrote Sub Misbehaved Badly

DEL NORTE, Colo. —(U.P.)— Charles L. Eagleton, 24, an enlisted man aboard the missing submarine O-9, wrote his father, Ota Eagleton, last week that "everything was wrong" with the submarine.

The elder Eagleton said his son described the O-9 as "misbehaving badly" during a test, but he added that "we have everything under control and it looks all right now."

TOLD TO REPORT

Italian Nationals Ordered to Reveal Whereabouts.

ROME—(INS)—The Italian radio announced today that all Italian Nationals abroad who previously have been excluded from military service must notify authorities of their whereabouts and present themselves for military service by July 15.

Mansfield's State Guard to Be Mustered In Wednesday

First in its regiment to be mustered into service with the Ohio State Guard, Company F, Mansfield's unit in the new guard, will be inducted Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the state armory on Ashland road, Capt. Glenn L. Bierly, commander, announced today.

Bierly said that 53 men had already enlisted with the new company, which will be part of the Third Regiment, and that further enlistments were being held from 1 to 4 p. m. today at the armory.

He emphasized that enlistments would not be limited, saying that the physical examinations which will be held later would probably eliminate several enlistees. The company will have 50 guardsmen and three officers.

Bierly also announced that he had appointed a citizens' committee to arrange a civilian program to be held in connection with the mustering ceremony.

Serving on the committee will be R. B. Gardner, representing the American Legion in the Fifth Corps area; M. Earl Saltzgaber, citizens' committee for selectees; J. M. Wallace, Spanish War Veterans and Memorial association; W. J. Locke, mayor; Rev. Grover Swoyer, former Battery D member and a member of the Sons of American Revolution; and Clyde L. Myers, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the 37th Division association.

CURB FOR REDS

Roosevelt Expected to Sign Bill Passed Yesterday.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — President Roosevelt was expected to place further restrictions on fifth column activities in this country within a few days by signing legislation giving him almost unlimited power over movements of all persons in or out of the United States.

Congressional action on the measure was completed in a few hours yesterday, and it is expected to reach the president's desk some time today or over the week-end.

The bill gives the president powers identical to those granted former President Woodrow Wilson during the World war, but makes them operative whenever two or more nations are involved in war. The World war statute stipulated that the powers could be exercised only in event the United States was a belligerent.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Just to be ornery, let's take a whack today at that old Hollywood axiom that the grass grows greener, for the star-grazers, in the fields beyond the studio fence.

The scorebook is full of instances to bear out the notion. It records, outstandingly, the matter of Bette Davis, who didn't amount to a row of ingenues until RKO borrowed her from Warner Bros. and set her dramatic ball a-rolling. It recounts l'affaire Lupino, the tale of Ida who didn't wanna be sweet as apple cider. She had to go to Warner's to prove her poison in "They Drive by Night."

ROBBIN COONS

There's a big page on Hedy Lamarr, a Metro-orchid who didn't bloom until she traveled to "Algiers." There are Colbert and Gable, who "happened one night" to get away to Columbia, from Paramount and Metro respectively, and came home with Oscars. Then a chapter or two on Robert Cummings, the man nobody knew at Paramount, the man everybody liked at Universal.

But here's another book on our shelf It mentions, among others, Joan Crawford. It tells of a hard-working ex-chorine who was doing fine as a dancing daughter until she got notions. She got herself loaned out to go dramatic. She made "Rain." She quit wishes she hadn't. Where do she make amends? Back home at Metro, where today she's on the upbeat again for "A Woman's Face."

This book has a section on Jimmy Cagney, who won a lawsuit to leap the Warner fences, and didn't make an outstanding picture again until he got back in the old pasture. And on Robert Montgomery, who sickened of the eternal playboy and demanded "Night Must Fall." He had to fight for it, but he got it right at home He's making the rounds now — "Mr. and Mrs Smith" at RKO, "Heaven Can Wait" at Columbia, "Unfinished Business" at Universal. Unless the new ones change the score, his best is still the home-made "Night Must Fall"

Chatter Corner

(Just jottings about people you know, as they're seen here and there about town.)

Mrs. John W. Bricker, wife of the governor, calling at General hospital to see her sister and niece who are recovering from automobile accident injuries . . . Deputy Sheriff G. C. Humphrey and William Thull comparing blisters on their hands after an evening's work in their gardens.

Two little colored girls, looking exactly alike, leaning over the edge of the Central park fountain watching the fish . . . Ruth Harbaugh leaving for Columbus to take a civil service examination . . . Police Chief Meade K. Bates enjoying black coffee for breakfast . . . Raymond J. Brown, attorney, doffing his coat while waiting in the Municipal building.

Margaret Adams, tuberculosis case-finding nurse, checking her list of calls for the day . . . City Solicitor M. D. Ward jr., delivering a short colloquy on the merits of different razors . . . Frank Burton, parks superintendent, leafing though a batch of park reservations for picnics and family reunions.

COAL OPERATORS SEEK TO CHECK MINER BENEFITS

Plan to Ask Supreme Court For Restraining Order In Shutdown Case.

COLUMBUS—Ohio coal operators planned to ask the supreme court for an order today restraining payment of unemployment benefits to miners participating in the 1939 bituminous coal shutdown.

Coal circles heard reports meanwhile that one or two Ohio mines might be picketed Monday if the court granted the order restraining H. C. Atkinson, bureau of unemployment compensation administrator, from paying the estimated $250,000 benefits.

An operators' spokesman, expressing belief there would be no general walkout of the CIO United Mine Workers, said he heard some picketing was threatened by presently-jobless miners claiming benefits for the shutdown of two years ago.

Meanwhile plans were completed to give the Northern Bituminous miners a week's vacation July 2 to 8 as provided in a recent agreement with the CIO. R. L. Ireland, jr., president of the Ohio Coal association, said last night that miners will offset any defense shortage by working two Saturdays, June 28 and July 12. Each miner will receive $20 cash bonus. Because of the general closing July 4, some mines will lose as little as one day's work, Ireland said.

The plea to the supreme court was just one of many legal steps taken over the benefits, once estimated to involve between $800,000 and $1,000,000 but reduced considerably because many miners received later in the year maximum allowable benefits, through a later period of idleness.

The issue revolves on whether the 1939 shutdown was a strike, for Ohio law prohibits jobless payments to strikers. Joy Seth Hurd, Cleveland common pleas judge, ruled in the Ohio Coal company case that the shutdown was not a strike but a "state of inertia."

A court of appeals upheld Hurd and the supreme court, by refusing to review, did likewise. Meanwhile operators had filed 22 other cases.

The test case of these 22 is the one brought by the Lorain Coal and Dock company.

The case submitted to a common pleas court at Columbus has not been decided.

The operators enjoined Atkinson from paying benefits, but the restraining order recently was ordered dissolved by a court of appeals on the ground that the Ohio Coal company case had decided the issue.

ASKS PAROLE OF EDITOR'S KILLER

Attorney Seeks Re-opening of Case of Ben Rudner In Mellett Slaying.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The state pardon and parole commission was asked today to reopen the case of Ben Rudner, one of the slayers of Don Mellett, crusading Canton editor.

Attorney Isadore Topper, Columbus, requested that Rudner be considered for parole.

In a letter to the commission, Topper said that he is interceding in behalf of Rudner because he had been asked to "by several of my friends." He said he has not talked to any members of Rudner's family, and will not accept any compensation.

Topper recently discussed the Rudner case with members of the commission.

Rudner is at the Lebanon honor camp of the London prison farm. He was sentenced to life on a second degree murder conviction and is therefore eligible for parole. An earlier parole board heard his case and ordered his sentence continued.

Floyd Streitenberger, one of Rudner's accomplices in the Mellet killing is also at the prison farm Pat McDermott, said to have been the trigger man, is in Ohio penitentiary, branded as "entirely unreformed" by Welfare Director Charles Sherwood.

HENRY ACKERMAN, 96, FORMER CITY COUNCIL PRESIDENT, DIES

Henry Ackerman, resident of Mansfield since 1865 and at one time president of city council, dropped dead at his home, 147 East First street, Friday at 5 p. m.

Mr. Ackerman, who would have reached his 96th birthday, July 11, had been in his customary health yesterday and his unexpected death came as a shock to his wife who was with him at the time.

Born in Germany, Mr. Ackerman came to Mansfield with his parents when a young man of 20.

He started a barber shop in 1866 and continued his place of business in the rooms beneath the old Mansfield Savings bank until the new bank was built about 20 years ago when he retired.

Active in civic life, Mr. Ackerman served six years as councilman and one year as council president. He was a member of the board of health for eight years and for nine years was a volunteer fireman.

HENRY ACKERMAN

He was a charter member of the Knights of Pythias lodge and was presented with a life membership by the lodge in 1933. He was also affiliated with St. Paul's Lutheran church.

His first wife, the former Christina Hartman, and mother of 10 children died 18 years ago. One daughter and three sons also preceded him in death.

Mr. Ackerman is survived by his second wife, Rebecca Hartman, a sister of the first Mrs. Ackerman, and by two sons and four daughters. They are Adam Ackerman of Chicago; Harry Ackerman and Mrs. Nancy Carver of Los Angeles; Mrs. Anita Sutherland of New York city; Mrs. Ella Wenzel, resident of Berlin, Germany, since 1911, and Mrs. Pearl DeCamp of Mansfield. An adopted daughter, Mrs. Helen Marie Somer of Trenton, N. J., also survives with a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 3:30 p. m. at the Wappner Funeral home with the Rev. H. L. Gilbert, of St. Paul's Lutheran church, officiating. Interment will be in Mansfield cemetery.

W. G. Cox, naval recruiting officer, always leaves a slip on his door in the postoffice so that if anyone wants to join in his absence they can write their names down and be looked up later. It's a good system, Cox says, but Friday some one ruined the morale of the whole postoffice staff by writing down "Whimpy, Steam Corners." Cox blames the internal revenue men next door and they put the blame on the civil service department. It's just about reached the place where the various departments of the federal government in Mansfield are not talking to each other.

WORKERS PLAN MASS MEETING ON CONTRACT

Expected to Convene Sunday To Ratify CIO Pact, Dues Checkoff.

(By Associated Press)

Wage increases for some of the 120,000 workers of the Ford Motor plants were indicated today as employes made ready to attend a Sunday mass meeting in Detroit to ratify a contract providing a CIO-union shop and the dues checkoff for the first time in the automobile industry.

The United auto workers looked for detailed negotiations on wages to begin next week. The terms of the contract signed in Washington yesterday provided that any increases are to be retroactive to the date of the signing.

The workers themselves meet tomorrow to act on the Ford-CIO agreement, which calls in general for wage rates equal at least to the highest paid by other motor firms as well as those making steel, rubber, glass and cement.

The pact makes the CIO spokesman for all Ford workers except supervisors, and provides time and a half for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays. R. J. Thomas, UAW president, described it as a pattern which he believed would be universally adopted before another year.

While industrial peace appeared imminent for Ford, there was trouble on other fronts in the defense program.

AFL machinists on strike from San Francisco Bay area shipyards early today for the second time refused to return to their jobs, rejecting an ultimatum from Harvey W. Brown, third international president, that they go back. He said that, acting on the authority of the international executive council, he was ordering that the strike end at midnight tonight, and that no more donations be forthcoming from the international. Local 68, however, turned the order down.

Harry Hook, business agent of the local, said his executive board lacked authority to concur in the action of the international.

The machinists want the old wage scale of $1 an hour increased to $1.15 and a continued payment of double time for overtime. They have turned down $1.12 an hour and time and a half.

Chrysler corporation officials reported approximately 5,000 men were idle yesterday in body frame plants. They said workers "sat down" after one employe was sent home for insubordination. The CIO said no strike had been called.

A sugar refinery workers strike at the Philadelphia plant of the W. J. McCahan Sugar Refining and Molasses company spread to the Franklin Sugar Refining company.

A dispute between the E. W. Bliss company of Brooklyn, N. Y., and the CIO electrical workers was announced as settled by the mediation board, which said both sides had agreed to arbitration. The major dispute was over the establishment of minimum rates which were made public. The firm holds contracts for $30,000,000 worth of torpedoes and machinery.

Conn Loses Round With Prospective Father-In-Law

PITTSBURGH —(INS)— Parental objections continued to stymie Billy Conn's romance today.

Billy, the handsome Irish fighter who came within a shade of ending Joe Louis' reign as heavyweight champ, lost another round in his engagement with his prospective father-in-law, James L. (Greenfield Jimmy) Smith, Pittsburgh sportsman.

He spent two hours with him yesterday, trying to get him to change his mind and permit him to marry his daughter, Mary Louise, 18-year-old blond beauty. Smith apparently was adamant, because the happy-go-lucky Conn returned to his Fifth avenue home dejected. He told reporters:

* * *

"No wedding today. I'd love to be married now, but I can't."

The wedding had been set for 9:30 yesterday morning at St. Philomena church.

ABANDON HOPE FOR OFFICERS, MEN OF SUB 0-9

All Efforts at Communication Fail; Wreckage Indicates Submersible Crushed.

communicate but have received no indication life in submarine."

Lieut. Olson, like virtually every official at the navy yard, was pessimistic regarding the fate of the victims.

"I would say they're all dead," said Lieut. Olson.

He hesitated and added:

"Of course, there is a chance."

The O-9 was built for diving to 200 foot depths. The fact she has done more than twice that distance accentuated the hopelessness of the situation.

Lieut. Olson said that when the 0-9 was determined to have been disabled, his submarine—the Grayling—and the submarine Grenadier, attempted to locate her by triangular oscillation soundings. These efforts failed.

Twenty-five divers were at the scene. According to Lieut. Olson it requires more than fifteen minutes for a diver to descend the hazardous depth of 440 feet and because of the tremendous pressure it would take between one and one-half and two hours to bring them up. Gradual stages of ascension of a diver are imperative to avoid the "bends"—dread affliction of diving men.

Rescue workers strove feverishly all night to effect a rescue and work proceeded this morning without interruption.

Aiding them in their work was the fact that the sea was calm and there was only a light offshore breeze. The weather was warm and sunshiny.

A press boat, containing newspapermen and photographers, left the navy yard at 8 o'clock this morning for the scene.

The administration building at the navy yard was transferred into a news headquarters. Scores of reporters, radio men, photographers and telegraphers milled around in close quarters.

Strictest precautions were being taken within the navy yard. Reporters could not move from the administration building without a marine escort. The yard is engaged in building submarines for national defense and appears to be working at top speed.

The consensus of navy officials was that the 0-9 was a victim of an accident and not sabotage.

Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox arrived at the Portsmouth navy yard at 9 o'clock this morning, and immediately went into conference with Rear Admiral John D. Wainwright, commandant of the yard.

"It's a terrible shock," was Colonel Knox's comment as he went into the commandant's office.

Colonel Knox emerged from the commandant's office at 9:30 a. m. His demeanor was serious. He posed for the photographers but would not do any broadcasting.

"I'm going to the scene with Admiral Wainwright," Knox announced.

"Is there any hope the men will be rescued?" he was asked.

"We'll have to await a report from the experts before that can be answered. The experts are on the scene now, doing all they possibly can,

"A diver was ready at 7:30 o'clock this morning to try a descent. He may have gone down by now. I don't know.

"He's going down to a greater depth than any man ever went before in this kind of an operation."

Knox and Admiral Wainwright drove to the pier and took a boat to the scene of the disaster.

Knox left Washington last evening, flying by plane to Manchester, N. H., his home, where he spent the night. He motored to Portsmouth this morning.

The navy secretary said the entire staff of the navy was "deeply distressed" over the plight of O-9. He added that nothing would be left undone to rescue "the gallant officers and men who manned the O-9."

Navy officials were generally agreed that use of the Momsen lung by the O-9's crew, in attempting to effect an escape, would be impossible at the great depth at which they are trapped.

This lung is a device, clapped over the mouth and nose, allowing the wearer to breathe under water. At a depth of 440 feet, however, the pressure on the men's bodies would be so terrific they probably would die almost instantaneously.

Rescue ships at the scene include the Falcon, two tenders, the Penacook and the Chewink, and the submarines, Grayling, Triton, Trout, Grenadier, and the submarine sister ships, O-6, and O-10.

It was the O-10 which flashed word back to the Portsmouth navy yard that the O-9 had failed to resurface on schedule after a two-hour practice dive. The O-9 shot down in its dive at 8:36 a. m., and nothing untoward was noted by the other submarines until she failed to reappear two hours later. Shortly before 11 a. m., the O-10 sent word that the O-9 was in trouble.

Immediately the Falcon, which was nearby, and other rescue vessels were dispatched to the scene. Soon, one of the ships sighted a black smoke bomb on the water's surface.

(A black smoke bomb in submarine signal code means "trouble." A red smoke bomb means a crippled vessel.)

Hours later observers aboard the rescue ships noted a spread of oil slick and some air bubbles on the water's surface. This enabled them to establish the scene of the disaster. It also strongly indicated that at least part of the submersible's hull had been crushed by the tremendous deep sea pressure.

The O-9 was a twenty-three year old submarine, completed just after the close of the World war. She was recommissioned only a short time ago because of the national emergency and lacked many of the safety devices with which modern submersibles are equipped.

Commander Jewell summoned newspapermen into the crowded emergency press room in the administration building. He displayed the bits of cork which had been found on the water above the spot where the O-9 had dived.

He said in his opinion the cork was from the inside of the O-9's hull, and that it indicated the submarine had been crushed.

"It's hard to tell what part of the sub was crushed," he added.

He tried to be optimistic but it was evident that, like everybody else, he felt the chances of the men being rescued alive were remote.

Luckiest man in the navy was Ensign John Francis Jones, of Chatsworth, Ga., an officer on the O-9, who was late arriving at the New London, Conn., base when the submarine started out yesterday morning for the practice dive. The O-9 left without him.

Sister Ship of Sunken Sub, Scene of Search

The O-12, sister ship of the O-9; where it is disabled and below, a diving bell used in the recent Squalus disaster on the rescue ship Falcon.

Here is a type of the U. S. submarine O-9 feared crushed on the floor of the ocean during a test dive off Portsmouth, N. H., with a crew of 33 officers and men aboard This submarine is the O-12. The O-9 was commissioned in 1918 and is one of the oldest in the service. A diving bell, used successfully in rescue of survivors in the Squalus disaster in 1939, was rushed to the scene aboard the rescue ship, Falcon, pictured below.

the grand jury to investigate the Bellville case, but he refused to discuss the case today. He said no information on the case would be available until the sheriff makes arrests.

Sheriff Robinson said at noon today that he had not received the warrants and had no information on the nature of the secret charges. There was nothing to indicate how many of the 17 secret charges involved the Bellville case.

Three of the seven persons held under charges in the case have received workhouse sentences in county probate court for contributing to the delinquency of two Bellville sisters, 16 and 17 years old. The other four defendants, including the parents and one of the girls, are awaiting hearing of the cases in probate court.

Shout Saves Lives Of 8 Firemen In Cincinnati Blaze

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—The warning shout of a bystander was credited today in saving eight firemen from death or serious injury during a $50,000 fire which consumed a five-story building.

The building, destroyed last night, was occupied by the Artyle Industries, Inc.

Chester Searp, employed in a nearby factory, was leaning from a window to watch the blaze when he noticed a big water tank above the Artyle roof begin to weaken.

He ran to the street and warned eight firemen, shooting water on the fire, only a few seconds before the tank plunged through the roof and sent brick and debris falling to the street where the firemen had been standing.

An explosion of a baking oven on the third floor of the building started the fire.

Ordinary Germans Worried as Nazi Press Ignores Message

American consular officials in Germany after the outbreak of European hostilities "adopted an attitude which virtually made them English agents."

Korrespondenz also charged the U. S. government with showing "bad manners" and expressed doubt whether such manners would pay in the long run.

A German spokesman said last night that President Roosevelt's message to congress on the Robin Moor case had been carefully noted but declined to comment on it.

As far as the freezing of German funds in the United States was concerned, Adolf Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Boebachter, arrived at the conclusion that the United States had "cut its own flesh." The measure, the paper said, was contrary to all rights and treaties.

The German-American treaty of December, 1923, contains unmistakable guarantees absolutely eliminating actions such as now taken by the Roosevelt administration, the newspaper declared.

German assets in the United States have been reduced to 120,000,000 marks ($48,000,000), Boebachter said, while American holdings in Germany were estimated at 1,700,000,000 marks ($680,000,000.)

Expect U. S. To Send Strong Warning

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A strong note demanding that Germany make full reparations for the sinking of the S. S. Robin Moor was expected today to be dispatched swiftly to Berlin following President Roosevelt's message to congress branding the sinking "the act of an international outlaw."

It was considered a foregone conclusion that this nation's official representations would include a direct warning against any further molestation of American shipping.

The president in his message interpreted the sinking as "a warning that the United States may use the high seas of the world only with Nazi consent." To yield to such control, he asserted, would mean that "we would inevitably submit to world domination at the hands of the present leaders of the German reich."

"We are not yielding and we do not propose to yield," he concluded.

The president withheld any indication of the means which would be used to make this forceful declaration effective. In this, he adhered to his established policy of keeping the Axis leaders guessing.

ASK FOR AID IN OHIO TIE-UP

Union Leaders Want Conciliator At Strike In Defiance.

DEFIANCE—(INS)—A. F. of L. union leaders today requested the aid of a federal conciliator in an attempt to settle the five-day strike at the American Steel Package company which threatens to curtail production at the Crosley corporation's Cincinnati plant.

William Blue, president of the Electrical Workers local, said the request was made after renewed negotiations with company officials became deadlocked. About 350 employes are idle at the plant which makes radio condensers, most of which go to the Crosley corporation.

The union struck to enforce demands for a 10-cent hourly increase for men getting 45 cents an hour and women receiving 35, and a 30 per cent boost in piecework rates.

Turkey Sees Nazi-Red War

Nazi demands on Soviet Russia have been made in the form of an ultimatum and war is imminent, according to reports from Turkey. Included in the reported demands was return of Bessarabia (1) to Rumania. Meantime, British, Free French and Indian troops attacked Damascus (2) from three sides, while Alexandria (3) suffered its heaviest raid of the war by German bombers.

AGED CONVICT SHOUTS NAVAJO WAR CRY IN LETHAL GAS ROOM

CANON CITY, Col. — (U.P.) — James (Mancos Jim) Stephens, 76, gray haired and toothless, stolidly approached the hour last night when he would have to pay the penalty for killing Lynn Dean, the Mancos town marshal who had tried to jail him when he was "likkered up."

Stephens was willing but too feeble to walk the quarter mile from the prison death row to the gas house chamber building, so Warden Roy Best drove him there by automobile. Lack of teeth—he said he had a store-bought pair once "but I guess I lost it somewhere"—had confined his last meal to fruit juices, soft boiled eggs and three cups of coffee. That, he said, was what made him so weak.

Best had to help him from the automobile to the chair in the gas chamber to which he was tied. Stephens tried to shove the assisting hands away.

"I can take it," he grumbled, "but it's a dirty shame. Give it to me quick."

The door was closed, and Best stepped outside to pull the lever that drops cyanide pellets into a bowl of sulphuric acid beneath the condemned man's chair—creating deadly cyanide gas.

Suddenly Stephens began to squirm. His left hand came free from the strap that bound it to the chair. He plucked the death mask from his face.

He smiled, opened his toothless mouth and threw back his head.

A screeching, falsetto yell—the war whoop of the Navajo Indians—reverberated through the execution room.

Stephens freed his other hand and unfastened the belt around his waist. Still smiling, he folded his hands across his chest and gulped in the gas. A moment later his head dropped on his chest, and 17 minutes later he was pronounced dead.

The six witnesses were unnerved by the war whoop. One described it as "terrible—you can't put it in words."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JUNE 21, 1941.

Drive carefully tomorrow—summer is the time for less haste and more enjoyment.

The trouble with this country is that we're too innocent, and don't suspect deviltry till we're half ruined.

We could almost pay for national defense with the money we spend for unnecessary hats and neckties, but it wouldn't be fair to the haberdashers.

We Shall Not Yield

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, in his special message to congress yesterday, stated most clearly the position this country takes on the sinking by a German submarine, of the Robin Moor, a peaceful ship engaged in peaceful commerce.

"In brief, we must take the sinking of the Robin Moor as a warning to the United States not to resist the Nazi movement of world conquest. It is a warning that the United States may use the high seas of the world only with Nazi consent," the president said.

But, he said, to that warning "we are not yielding and we do not propose to yield."

Many will consider that the president's fighting words have taken us increasingly closer to the brink of war.

Perhaps that is the case.

But if we pass off the Robin Moor sinking lightly, what will our position be if another, and another and yet another American ship is sent to the bottom under similar circumstance?

Shall we continue to yield? Shall we assume the role of appeasers of the Nazis, knowing what the fate of Nazi appeasers has always been?

No one yet has succeeded in ruling us off the seas, either by warning or by force. Our naval tradition has always been a glorious one.

There seems no other course for a nation that is unafraid than to challenge the Nazi warning.

It may bring us closer to war—but it has not yet taken us into it. The next steps this country will take were not discussed by the president, other than to say that a stern protest will be made, and that complete reparations will be demanded.

What was left unsaid was what we shall do to safeguard our ships and our nationals from the German pirates.

The war of nerves goes on—and the situation grows graver and grimmer.

Still it seems a safe bet that our national nerves are less strained than those of the German leaders.

If the Nazis can understand plain talk, they may soon have to admit that we aren't going to be bluffed by them.

Preventing Paralysis

CHICAGO health authorities are watching current cases of infantile paralysis in the hope that an epidemic may be prevented. So far the number of cases this year is about the same as it was for the same period a year ago. But last year's cases did not taper off with the arrival of cold weather. They continued through the winter. The outbreak following such a prolonged siege is usually more severe, which is an added reason for civic concern today.

On the good side of the situation are the growing knowledge of the disease and improved treatment. Illinois public health offices are already collecting convalescent serum—the clear residue from the blood of persons who have recovered from the disease—which doctors find tends to prevent the crippling paralysis that occurs in nearly half the cases.

Preventive efforts are chiefly concerned with closing wading pools and warning parents. The latter are told to keep their children from over-exertion, over-heating and chilling, away from crowds, and so on. They are warned against unwashed fruits and vegetables, raw milk and crowded public beaches. Also, anything that looks like a "common cold" must be specially watched at this season. A child with an upset stomach, a sore throat, an increased temperature should be promptly examined by a doctor. Early treatment may prevent paralysis.

End of War of Hokum

NOW that our government has cracked down on such propagandist publications as those of the "German Library of Information," which might better have been called the "Nazi Library of Misinformation," American newspaper editors and writers have more space on their desks and can face the day's work with less annoyance.

The publications mentioned, including a sheet quaintly called "Facts in Review," were devoted to presenting Nazi Germany as a realm of sweetness and light. It was a pure and kindly domain where flourished all the finer arts of civilization, where war was a mere incident "forced upon the Fatherland" by its British enemies, and so on.

"Of course," remarks an irate newspaper man, "it was pretty silly to imagine that informed Americans would be taken in. They already knew how all the worthwhile scientists, artists, musicians and writers had been driven out of Germany years ago, how free education had vanished and the entire child population filled full of 'superman' pap. They knew that Nazi Germany was a gigantic racket maintained by military power, and that it intended to destroy every country it could, in one way or another. This hokum cost a lot of dough to print. We often wondered where the dough came from."

Kayak On the Tennessee

MANY people who never quite have the nerve to undertake adventurous vacations enjoy reading about those who do. Such people will envy but not imitate the two Illinois college professors who are spending two weeks on the Tennessee river in a two-place kayak rigged with sails.

Their vacation time is short, but they are making the most of it by doing something entirely out of their usual routine. That is really the ideal vacation, since it uses different muscles and brain cells and provides change of scene.

America is rich in opportunities for "roughing it" with considerable safety and comfort, visiting strange places without having to spend much time getting to them, and going "primitive" without running the risk of never getting back to civilization.

One wonders a little what the people along the Tennessee river think of the eskimo kayak when it comes in sight. But that's another good thing about this country. It is possible to do eccentric things, within reason of course, and still not be considered a dangerous lunatic.

WE KNOW YOU, ADOLF

No Enemies for Senator Here

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — When the Senate confirmed the elevation of Democratic Sen. James F. Byrnes to the U. S. Supreme Court, it did it unanimously and so quickly that no one had time to take out a stop watch.

Last March, Sen. Charles L. McNary, minority leader, called at the White House and told the president that it was the unanimous opinion of the Senate Republicans that Senator Byrnes should have the vacancy created by retirement of Associate Justice James C. McReynolds.

This was, of course, a great tribute to an able and respected adversary, but some politicians invariably cast a fishy eye on tributes from "the other side of the aisle." A few suspicious Democrats wondered if their GOP foes weren't pulling a fast one—and among themselves, privately, voiced their fears.

Now, some Washington wags are saying that the president, in removing from the political arena the cleverest liaison man he has had in Congress has done one of the nicest things he could do for the opposing party.

Mixed His Medicines.

It's not necessary to wag with the wags to admit the truth of this. Senator Byrnes has been the most potent shepherd of administration legislation in the Senate for at least eight years. I haven't found many who will agree that he has any formula — but in almost every case, it appears that he has mixed soothing syrup with his bad medicine to such an extent that not even the opposition came out of the ruckus with any complaints against the South Carolina senator about what they had had to swallow.

Even when "Jimmy" went against the home team—and he did, importantly, several times—he was always welcomed back into the line-up with a lot of heartiness. When he fought in the ranks against the chief executive, he seemed to be able to do it without acquiring or leaving any scars.

He rammed the two-billion-dollar veterans' bonus bill through over the president's veto; he backed his senior colleague, Sen. E. D. "Cotton Ed" Smith, in the famous purge elections after the latter had been placed on the blacklist. He opposed the wage and hour bill. He backed out of the senate majority leader race to throw his weight for Sen. Pat Harrison, who lost to the administration-favored Sen. Alben Barkley by only one vote. But it was Senator Barkley himself who recently accompanied Harrison and Sen. Carter Glass to the White House to urge Byrnes for the Supreme court job.

In the Supreme court reorganization fight, Byrnes was in the forefront for the administration. It was a bitter battle—and for Byrnes and the administration, a lost cause—yet a very few years later, friends and foes alike were willing to join hands and insist that Byrnes be given a lifetime job on the same bench that opponents had shouted he was trying to sabotage.

He'll Be Missed.

Is it any wonder that some Democrats got a little suspicious and murmured that maybe the opposition was trying to bury one of their ablest political gladiators?

If there had been, it might have been dispelled when it became apparent that Byrnes' nomination to the court had been postponed until after the $7,000,000,000 lend-lease bill fight and when the rumor leaked out the other day that he would stay on in the senate—in spite of his appointment and confirmation—until Majority Leader Barkley returned from his long illness.

The president has put some of his most capable lieutenants on the Supreme court—and not the least of these is Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, appointed at the same time Byrnes was—but it is pretty certain there is none he will miss so much when politics get rough and tumble and Congress gets out of hand.

Listen World!

A Withered Arm

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

A MAN died the other day, an old man whose word had once rocked the entire world, former Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany. He died in exile, repudiated by most of his own people, despised by most of the human race. Yet he was not a bad man. Nor a stupid man. He was simply a shackled man . . .

A man shackled by a withered arm.

Kaiser Wilhelm II was born with a splendid physique and a magnificent heritage. He had titles as long as a trail of stars. He was handsome . . . intelligent . . . magnetic. He was endowed by nature as lavish as he was by lineage. But he had one handicap—

He had a withered arm.

Now, a withered arm, in itself, is not an insurmountable obstacle. Thousands of human beings are conquering harder inflictions . . . blindness, deafness, paralysis. They are conquering them physically because they have conquered them mentally and emotionally. They have learned that the human spirit may rise above any obstacle, hurt or heartbreak, if it has the right slant on things.

But Kaiser Wilhelm II didn't have the right slant on things. His birth was so regal, his privileges and power so vast, that he was unable to maintain a healthy perspective. He did not see that all men may suffer handicaps yet grow wise and strong enough to ignore them. He only saw that he, who was "divinely appointed," had an overwhelming affliction. And his life became a passionate attempt to compensate for that affliction and make other people forget it. He wanted to hurt people because his own pride was hurt. He wanted to subjugate people because he had been subjugated. He wanted to assert his power because that withered arm made him doubt that power.

World War No. 1 was not based on a nation's revolt. It was based on one man's rebellion against a withered arm. The tragic, blasted years which followed it, and which have culminated in World War No. 2, extended the shadow of that withered arm. And Hitler, who followed Kaiser Wilhelm II, prolonged the curse. Hitler's body is whole, but something in his soul is withered. He, too, shudders under the sense of inferiority and must feed, like a vampire, on other lives, that his own egotism may live.

There's nothing new in this tragic search for compensation. Millions of us are afflicted by it. Millions of us, unconsciously, are afflicted by a "withered arm" in our spirit . . . and sap and wound the lives we touch in our effort to feed our wounded pride. For a "withered arm" need not, necessarily, be an actual arm. It may be some part of ourselves which refuses to grow up . . . some infantile obsession . . . some grievance or conceit we cannot cast off.

And so, to soothe our hurt egotism, we reach out, in fear and fury, to demonstrate our power.

A Kaiser Wilhelm II invades Belgium . . . shoots down harmless citizens.

A jealous wife invades her husband's office . . . slanders his name.

A discontented housewife gets a job, goes "careerist," neglects her home.

They all are animated by the same desire. They wish to assert their own power — and escape from their own fear.

For only those who are deeply and horribly afraid, seek such public reassurance and applause. Somewhere within them there is a withered arm . . . an undeveloped part of their own personality . . . a hangover from a frustrated babyhood.

Are YOU spoiling life for yourself, and others because you have a withered arm?

I did. For years.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, June 21, 1921.

Miss Ruth Oberlin and Lloyd Shawber were united in marriage at the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. O. L. Kiplinger of the First Congregational church left for a ten-week Chautauqua trip with the Redpath bureau.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Smith left for Portland, Ore., to spend the summer.

Miss Evangeline Gilkinson and Charles Payne were united in marriage at St. Luke's Lutheran church.

Mayor Henry Brunner sent out notices to the effect no fireworks could be sold before June 30.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, June 21, 1936.

Rev. David N. Roller preached his first sermon as the new pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Miss Martha L. Flook and Mervin E. Grau were married at the First Christian church.

William Colby made his first solo flight at municipal airport.

J. B. Moke returned from Evansville, Ill., where he was attending a conference.

Mrs. George Hughes and daughters, Mary Olive and Josephine, returned from a trip to Washington, D. C.

TODAY IN HISTORY

June 21—Discoverer of the Mississippi river, Ferdinand De Soto, died of fever on June 21, 1542, in what is now Arkansas. His body was wrapped in a mantle, encased in a tree trunk and committed to the river by his companions.

Germany Fences With Two Major Neutrals—America and Russia

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

WHEN we speak of new territory in Europe, fundamentally we can think only of Russia and her subjugated border states."

Thus wrote Adolf Hitler 16 years ago in Mein Kampf. During the week he began moving scores of his crack divisions toward Russia and especially toward her grain-producing "subjugated border state" of Ukrainian S. S. R.

In backhand fashion—as has often been her custom—Russia acknowledged that Germany was moving large bodies of troops to her frontier, but insisted relations with Germany were calm. She also disclosed that the Red Army is putting reservists through maneuvers near the German borders. All these moves, she insisted, were nothing to get excited about. Germany discounted rumors of a break.

But Europe was excited.

Germans and Turks Sign.

When partially-encircled Turkey signed a friendship pact with Germany, Britons promptly interpreted it as a Nazi effort to wean Turkey away from the Soviet. They said it was aimed at the isolation and encirclement of Russia.

Turkey had a friendship pact with Russia and an unfulfilled mutual assistance treaty with Britain in the event of war in the Mediterranean.

Britons acknowledged that the pact contained "possible future dangers" but said it was "infinitely less dangerous than the Germans desire."

Germans interpreted it as meaning that the Turks will stay out of the Reich's battle with the British.

Slaps From America.

1. Charges Of Inhumane Conduct.

Despite news that all aboard the torpedoed American freighter Robin Moor had been found, the U. S. announced that its basic charges of inhumane conduct for the sinking were unchanged.

It was understood these charges were based on the allegations:

That the ship was sunk without examination of her papers or cargo—which assertedly would have shown that she was bound for African ports not included in any combat zone and that she was carrying no materials of a military character.

That the proper precautions—as required by international law—were not taken by the submarine captain to provide for the passengers' safety.

A German spokesman asserted that "we really can't understand what all the fuss is about." He said that whenever "any ship with contraband sails" for British ports in any war theater "we'll shoot at it."

Yesterday, President Roosevelt, in a special message to congress, declared that the Nazi sinking of the Robin Moor was an act of international piracy, a plain warning that the United States may use the high seas of the world only with Nazi consent.

To that warning, he continued, the United States does not yield and does not propose to yield.

This country, he went on, will demand full reparations from Germany.

2. Freezing Of Assets.

The president extended his previous orders freezing assets of European nations to cover assets of all continental Europe, including Germany and Italy. Even the withdrawal of funds by neutrals will be supervised.

Treasury experts estimated that about $2,500,000,000 was affected but that less than a 10th of it was German and Italian. Secretary Morgenthau recently indicated that Germany and Italy had withdrawn much of their movable assets when he said "the barn is empty now—the horse is gone."

To ferret out reportedly large sums hidden under "dummy" names by the Axis, however, a special staff will begin sleuthing.

Under the order the 660,000 Italians and 360,000 Germans in the U. S. may not sell or transfer property or make withdrawals from their bank accounts without approval of the Treasury.

To "insure compliance," FDR told border patrol and customs men to prevent any Germans—including diplomats—from leaving the country until the U. S. can make sure they are taking no money beyond bare traveling expenses.

Italy retaliated by stopping American credits in Italy.

Three days passed before Germany stirred, and then she said simply that necessary counter measures were being taken.

It was questionable whether there were any sizable American assets left in Germany to be grabbed. All foreign assets have been rigidly supervised for years.

Little money has been allowed to leave the country. In 1936 an American company received 5,000,000 canaries in lieu of cash for its investments in Germany.

3. Closing Of Consulates.

The State Department advised a Senate committee that more persons are engaged in espionage and subversive activities in America now than during the World War period. It issued an order:

All 24 German consulates were to be closed by July 10 and Germans employed by them were to leave United States soil.

The German Library of Information in New York, the German railway and tourist agencies and Trans-Ocean News Service were to be closed and Germans connected with them to leave.

The order said all these agencies of the German Reich had been engaging in activities of an "improper and unwarranted character." Germany's embassy in Washington was not affected.

Germany "protested most sharply" against the order, ordered U. S. consulates in Germany closed. Italy did the same, although Italian consulates here had not been included in the U. S. order.

Oil Complaint

THE sleek Japanese freighter Azuma Maru pulled into Philadelphia and maritime circles spread reports that she would take on a 240,000-gallon load of oil. Earlier a petroleum famine on the Atlantic seaboard had been forecast because of a lack of tankers.

Edward Jobbins, official of a company producing fatty acids for defense, heard about the Azuma Maru and dashed off a telegram to Harold Ickes, new Petroleum Coordinator:

"I object very strongly to working my head off on defense and now facing the threat of having to close down because oil is being exported to Japan—an Axis power, and our potential enemy."

Ickes asked that the ship not be loaded. Next day he suggested to 32 east coast oil shippers that "no further sales of petroleum products for off-shore shipment be made without prior consideration by this office." Shipping sources in Philadelphia said the ban would affect at least seven more Japanese ships.

On Wednesday Ickes said three huge tankers now on routes between California and the east coast would be switched to service from Gulf ports to the east. Thus they could deliver 210,000,000 more gallons annually because of the shorter haul.

Radio vs. Night Bombers.

To meet the threat of the night bomber, nations have had to rely upon cumbersome detectors with huge mechanical ears.

Britain has now revealed her best-kept secret of the war, a radio-wave locator that "finds the enemy in the darkness, that seeks him out through the clouds." Officials said that by means of electric waves it signals accurately the location and course of planes miles away. They added it already is in actual operation by the hundreds, and indicated it was partly responsible for the slackening by Nazis of night raiding.

Credit for the invention went mainly to a chubby Scot, Robert Alexander Watson Watt, who has worked on it six years.

With the U. S. government's permission, Britain began recruiting American radio technicians and other mechanics needed to service the weapon.

Quotes

Oswald Ryan, Civil Aeronautics Board member: "Every Axis-controlled airline in South America is a challenge to the security of the United States and of this hemisphere."

Hugh Wilson, former U. S. ambassador to Germany, in describing training to bring forth potential Nazi leaders: "Especially selected boys lead an incredibly Spartan existence. . . . They are filled with a ruthlessness that is more ominous for the future than the Luftwaffe itself."

People

Herr Goebbels Censored?

The splashy-appearing newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter is owned by Adolf Hitler and is a big source of his private income. Recently small, agile-brained Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels contributed a speculative piece on the possibility of invading Britain.

He said there were "ways and means" of overwhelming England's defenses and hinted that the isle might be taken within two months.

Abruptly the edition was confiscated. To observers in America the episode meant either that (1) Hitler quashed Goebbel's prediction as being bad for German morale; or (2) the propaganda minister arranged the whole affair to publicize abroad an article designed to throw a fright into Britons.

In Short

Married: Victor Mature, actor, and Martha Stephenson Kemp, widow of orchestra leader Hal Kemp.

Kayoed: Boxer Billy Conn, by Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis in the last few seconds of the 13th round after AP's ringside dopesters had Conn leading on points.

Abandoned: Efforts by the Japanese to win from the Dutch East Indies vastly increased supplies of strategic raw materials. The Japanese insisted that the Dutch refusal would make "no change in normal relations."

Charged: 69 canning companies, trade organizations and individuals, with conspiring to fix prices for canned peas in violation of anti-trust laws, by a Chicago federal grand jury. The National Association of Retail Grocers retorted that the federal anti-trust division was falsifying food costs.

Reversed: America's declining birth rate, when 20,000 more babies were born in the first third of 1941 than for the same period last year. The census bureau statistician could only attribute the rise to the Selective Service Act. He said there were 25% more marriages last year than in the preceding two years.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Sky Pilot's Log.

There is no fear of death in me,
No fear of growing old,
I live each moment eagerly,
My heart is brave and bold.

Cloud galleons and swift sky birds,
These are my company.
The daily grind of usual
That palls is not for me.

The sky my only world, I know
Adventure in each day.
I give no though to future, fate
Will map it anyway.

RAF SMASHING INVASION PORTS IN GREAT RAID

Squadron After Squadron Roars Across Channel to Blast Nazi-Held Points.

the entire Straits of Dover as the attack was in progress.

The heavy mist over the sea gave the attackers good cover.

The noise of the planes' engines was clearly audible on the ground despite the great height at which they were flying.

It appeared to coastal observers that German ground defenses were caught by surprise by the British attack. Heavy bomb explosions were heard on the southeast coast for some time before the faint rumble of anti-aircraft guns became audible.

The British planes spread out fanwise as they left the coast, some apparently headed for Boulogne and others to the southwest.

Today's raids followed the tenth straight night of heavy British bombing of German objectives.

This time Kiel, the huge Nazi naval base on the Baltic, was selected as the chief target. The attack on Kiel may have been directed against a German pocket battleship which was damaged in an aerial torpedo attack off Norway last week. British sources believed that the battleship may have made its way to Kiel for repairs.

There was also another large scale British attack upon the French invasion coast.

STILL A PUZZLE

Meanwhile, the world awaited some sign from Adolf Hitler and Josef Stalin to indicate whether Germany and Russia will fight each other or reach a last minute agreement for even greater collaboration toward common ends.

Diplomats in European capitals divided almost evenly in their predictions of the outcome of the seldom equalled Russo-German war of nerves.

Fresh evidence appeared today that whatever the outcome of the crisis each side is taking every possible measure to place its defenses and fighting machines on a war basis and ready for any eventuality.

A detailed report from Helsinki indicated that Finland is fully mobilized and that Russia is taking similar precautions.

The Finns reported that Russia is creating a 60-mile wide zone of demolition along the German-Lithuanian frontier, obviously designed to impede any Nazi advance into the Baltic states.

Whole populations have been evacuated from certain key defense zones in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. Reports of similar activity in Bessarabia opposite the Rumanian frontier have been received previously.

In Helsinki the capital was fast taking on the appearance it had during the Finnish-Russian war. Anti-aircraft guns were being mounted on tall buildings, middle-aged men were being called to the colors and civilian life was disrupted by defense preparations.

Ankara reported similar activity in Rumania. Axis diplomats were said to have moved their families out of Bucharest. Belief grew in Ankara that no matter what concessions are offered by Moscow Germany will go through with an attack on Russia.

London opinion was also hardening toward belief that war is likely between Germany and Russia. The British heard that Gen. Siegmund von List, Nazi commander in the Balkans, had established a forward headquarters close to the Bessarabian frontier, in order to direct the Nazi offensive if one is ordered.

The London Express, a newspaper owned by Lord Beaverbrook, joined in a growing British demand for a British pledge of aid to Russia in event of a Nazi attack.

Allies Score Gains On Syrian Front

LONDON—(UP)—Allied troops have stormed and captured a dominant hill seven miles southwest of Damascus against fierce Vichy resistance, it was said authoritatively today.

On the coast, Allied forces are advancing slowly northward toward Beirut, it was said.

British planes bombed the French outpost at Soueida, where the Vichy garrison is now believed to be surrounded by Jebel Druz tribesmen, friendly to the Allies.

Fierce fighting was reported between Allied and Vichy troops in the ancient orchards and gardens surrounding Damascus.

Say Turk-Nazi Pact Is Aimed at Russia

LONDON — (AP) — A reliable foreign source said today the German-Turkish treaty contained a secret clause binding Turkey to benevolent neutrality in the event of war between Germany and Soviet Rusisa.

The clause, which probably would bar the Dardanelles to Russian war on supply ships if the Soviet Union fought Germany, was said by this source to have been forced on Turkey by "terrific German pressure like the rest of the declaration of German-Turkish friendship."

This source said he was told that Germany insisted on the Turkish past as a prelude to what he called "big moves" in eastern Europe involving Russia.

JUGOSLAV KING REACHES LONDON

Expected To Set Up Government In Exile At British Capital.

LONDON —(AP)— Accompanied by his prime minister and other ministers, 17-year-old King Peter II of conquered Yugoslavia arrived in England at 4:45 a. m. today and it was understood the Yugoslav government in exile would be established in London.

The party, traveling by plane, was greeted by the Duke of Kent, brother of King George VI of England.

The youthful monarch, who had been reported in Jerusalem since he fled Yugoslavia in April before the crushing might of the German military machine, had assumed his throne in a military coup d'etat on March 27, when the regime which signed up with the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis was ousted.

HELPS TO FORM NEW COMMITTEE

To aid in the organization of a Richland county nutrition committee, Mrs. Helen Baer, 66 Bartley avenue, has been appointed temporary chairman of this county by Mrs. Minnie Price of Columbus, chairman of the state committee.

Mrs. Baer, local home management supervisor of the farm security administration, said that the objective of the committee is to raise nutrition standards in the home, school and restaurants.

Her appointment was made at the state committee meeting yesterday in Columbus. Both Mrs. Baer and Elizabeth Bay, Richland county home extension agent, were in attendance.

THEATERS

Sprightly Plot.

When a husband feigns lunacy to prevent his wife from divorcing him it would be well to know where to draw the line, William Powell indicates in "Love Crazy," current comedy at the Ohio. Digging in Fifth avenue or eating phonograph records, as Powell does, may tend to land him in the asylum. Myrna Loy plays opposite Powell and the cast has Gail Patrick, Sara Haden and Sidney Blackmer.

Fight Revived.

The Jack Dempsey-Jess Willard fight pictures of 1919 were unearthed for "The Great American Broadcast," gala story of the birth of broadcasting, showing at the Madison. John Payne gives a blow by blow description of the fight used in the picture to depict the first nation-wide hook-up. Alice Faye, Jack Oakie and Payne play the pioneers and introduce many of the hit songs of yesteryear. Robert Sterling and Marsha Hunt are cast in the second attraction, "I'll Wait For You."

Musical Show.

An orchestra and floor show make the reducing parlors of Jerry Colonna an unusual place in "You're the One," opening Sunday at the Ritz, with Orrin Tucker's orchestra, Bonnie Baker, Edward Everett Horton and Albert Dekker in the cast. The plot revolves around the efforts of Miss Baker to get a spot with Dekker's orchestra until she meets Tucker. Then romance starts. The singer introduces "Oh Johnny," which she dragged from obscurity not so many months ago, and a number of other hits. "Texas Rangers," is the second attraction.

Tourist Melodrama.

The melodramatic story of tourist camp racketeers who use homeless and stranded girls to act as decoys for a blackmail ring is told in "Under Age," showing at the Majestic. Murder is in store for the blackmail victims and escape for the girls is impossible. Alan Baxter plays a road racketeer and a quintet of girls is portrayed by Mary Anderson, Patti McCarthy, Gwen Kenyon, Yolande Mollot and Wilma Francis. George Houston in "Lone Rider in Ghost Town," is the co-attraction.

Double Comedy.

Laughs and tunes are combined in "Rookies On Parade," comedy which opens Sunday at the Park, with Bob Crosby and Eddie Foy, jr., in the leading roles. Laid in a defense training camp the picture deals with the efforts of Crosby and Foy to obtain a backer for their musical show. When the "angel" is secured the boys decided to test the show at camp before taking it to Broadway. Ruth Terry, Marie Wilson and Gertrude Niesen are featured. Hal Roach's comedy, "Road Show," the second attraction, has Adolphe Menjou and a full roster of comedians.

Short Girls Want to Be Much Taller

By MME. QUI VIVE

When nature gets through with the growing process, there's no chance of putting on inches. You can't do a thing about bones; they determine the height. So the pint-sized girls might as well shut up bawling and find ways to make themselves look taller. It can be done. We aren't shedding any tears for the beauty troubles of the featherweight. Most of them know they're attractive. Just something to blubber about.

Girls in their teens who haven't normal measurements can do a lot to assist growth. They need plenty of milk, a quart a day anyway, to supply calcium, which is bone-making material. Good for the teeth, too. They must have meat, sea food, poultry, fruits, vegetables, cereals, cheese and nuts so as to give the body the various food elements that are necessary for well being.

Vigorous exercise will produce a galloping circulatory system. They should play basketball, baseball or tennis, sports that call for stretching movements. Swimming, also, is their beauty dish. Sunshine will get in its helpful licks. Expend energy out of doors, get ten or eleven hours sleep every night, and one can almost see oneself grow.

Undernourishment, lack of sleep or sunshine, too much worrisome work or study will stunt the growth. And, of course, there is the matter of inheritance. If parents have been short-changed in inches, daughter is likely to be a wee person.

Tabloid women have one advantage. They can wear kid clothes until they're 100 years old and everybody will admire them. They can revel in hats that are positively juvenile and nobody will say a word against them. Tiny hands and little feet excite envy. They look sassy and they usually are sassy.

It is a mistake for the undersized woman to wear austere millinery. Dignified, middle-aged attire doesn't suit them. They must strive, ever and always, to be dainty in every detail of get up. Many a darling old lady of small dimensions is a sweet armful for a stalwart son. I once heard a big six footer of a husband say to his diminutive wife: "I'd love to tuck you in my pocket and carry you around with me all the time." It's the way the big strong guy feels toward the half-portion lady of his choice.

One word of warning to the shorties: watch weight! If the bath room scales report a few pounds over normal, reduce the intake of sweets, fats and starches.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, June 22.

Sunday's horoscope is a fairly active one in a workaday sense, but the accent is founded on the social, domestic, religious or public affairs, with the emotions under strong stimuli. The tendency to social or sentimental indulgences may spur the impulse to extravagance, excess or dangerous inflationary ideas.

Those whose birthday it is may be justified in expecting a lively and prosperous year, with much happening in the business as well as private life. In fact the social, domestic or emotional interests may be to the fore, although public relations should be successful and pleasant. Temptations to extravagance, indulgence and speculative use of funds may arise.

A child born on this day should have much efficiency, versatility and ambition and may shine in the public eye.

For Monday, June 23.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a moderately active day, with social as well as business affairs fairly successful. However, there is some unique, subtle or vague situation or trend, which may prove a menace unless forcefully, directly and positively dealt with, by means of shrewd penetration and understanding of intangible circumstances.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a moderately lively year, but one fraught with peculiar or baffling situations. These subtle complications or intriguing factors may best be handled by direct, shrewd and positive action.

A child born on this day should be talented, versatile, with business, professional and social qualities for success, and yet may have conflicts in its makeup difficult to fathom. It will be popular.

HELEN LONG WED AT MORNING MASS

Miss Helen Long and Richard Pagani Were Wed This Morning at 9:30 A. M. at St. Peter's Church; Father Flynn Officiated at the Mass.

MISS HELEN GERTRUDE LONG, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Long, 515 Woodland avenue, and Richard Emerick Pagani, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Pagani, exchanged nuptial vows this morning at 9:30 a. m. at St. Peter's Catholic church. Msgr. Goebel officiated at the ceremony which was performed before an altar decorated with ferns and garden flowers. Raymond Baum, organist, furnished the music during the ceremony.

For her wedding the bride wore a white street length frock of organdy. The dress was fashioned along princess lines with a full skirt and short scalloped puffed sleeves. A white pique-sailor style hat with a short veil was worn on her head. Her only jewelry was a gold cross, the gift of the bridegroom.

She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and blue delphinium tied with a blue ribbon.

Miss Mary Grace Pagani, sister of the bridegroom, attended Miss Long. Her frock was of pink organdy made similar to that of the bride's. Her accessories were white and she wore a white straw hat. A colonial bouquet of pink roses and delphinium tied with blue ribbon was carried by the maid-of-honor. Theodore L. Pagani, brother of the bridegroom, attended his brother as best man.

The bride attended Mansfield high school. Mr. Pagani is a graduate of St. Peter's Catholic school and is employed at the Huff Manufacturing company. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the home of the groom's parents for the immediate families and a group of friends. The table was decorated with pink and white appointments, centered with a wedding cake.

The couple left for a short wedding trip following the breakfast reception. They will be at home at the Gardner apartments, 114 Park avenue west, upon their return. Mrs. Lockwood Jennings, Middletown, O., was the out-of-town guest in attendance.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Fortunately I had expected the question which the marauder on the balcony put to me. If I had not anticipated it, I am afraid I would have been unable to answer him, so paralyzing had been the effect of his brutal hand clamped over my nose and mouth.

But my whispered answer was distinctly tremulous.

"I haven't it here. I gave it to somebody else," I said.

"You're lying," he muttered, putting something cold against my forehead, something which I knew was the silencer pistol of which he had boasted.

Madge In Gangster's Power.

"All right," I capitulated. "Will you get the letter, or shall I?"

"That depends," he said. "Where is it?"

"In my bag on the closet shelf in the other room," I answered.

"Then you'll just toddle along with me and get it," he said. "Get out of that bed, now, and remember this baby of mine is right against your head, so don't try to play any tricks."

The telephone shrilled at that moment, and the gangster stiffened.

"I suppose you'll have to answer that," he said, "or else somebody might be barging up here to see why you didn't answer it.

"But you be mighty careful what you say. If you start down the wrong track, there'll be a little ping, and then you won't be talking any more."

"I'm not a complete idiot," I snapped, for the danger, instead of upsetting my nerves, was steadying them.

Her Coolness Puzzles Him.

I could almost feel his puzzled stare at me.

"You're a cool one," he said. Then he added philosophically. "But that's all to the good. You won't forget I'm right here on the job. Now take down that receiver, before she stops ringing."

I stretched out my arm to the phone on the stand by my bed, took off the receiver and spoke into the transmitter.

"Yes?" I said with a rising accent. "This is Mrs. Graham."

Even as I spoke, I was casting wildly about in my brain for the identity of this caller. It was not yet time for Ronald to make the long distance call he had promised, nor for the operator to ring to waken me. Unless my father had been in an accident—

The blessed relief of hearing Nancy Carew's voice almost made me drop the receiver. But mindful of the "persuader" in the gangster's hands, I held on to it.

"Mrs. Graham, I wondered if now would be the right time for you to see me? Don't hesitate to tell me if it isn't feasible. But Mary is back here, and very much engaged with her party. I don't think she'd be very apt to bother us if I should come over for a few minutes."

There was something in her voice which told me that for "party" I could read "Steve Redfield," and my heart sank at the possible reaction of Noel to such a combination.

"I am so sorry, Miss Carew," I said, "but it is simply impossible for me to see you now. I will let you know the first moment you can come over, and I'll explain later. Good-bye," and I put up the receiver.

"Oh! you'll explain later, will you?" the gangster muttered. "Well, maybe you will, and again maybe you won't. Now, get out of that bed and walk ahead of me to that other closet where the letter is."

I tensed the muscles of my hands and arms, and made the movement of by body and legs as deliberate as I could. I was sure that my father's men would never permit the gangster to get me away from the bed's poor shelter.

And then I saw the gangster's body give the sudden lurch I had expected, the movement which told me that the man beneath the bed had grabbed his ankles.

CHAPTER XXI

"Lottie went off to sleep, and the next morning she was her quiet little self. Bonifacio, the Filipino servant we had then, brought up my breakfast, and I sent him down for another tray; that went placidly enough. And I began to think if I could possibly keep Lottie safe up there, on the third floor of a big house. Where else would she be so hidden and so safe? I always was upstairs in my room for breakfast; my trays always had too much food on them, ad Filipinos aren't talkers. I said to Bonifacio that my sister would be with me a good deal. It was none of his business: he didn't care. Lottie could come and go in the quiet hours of the day, and in the evenings. If we'd arranged for years to have this happen we couldn't have arranged it more safely for her.

"I don't remember that we talked of it much. Weeks went by. Lottie expected her baby in January. She and I went on very quietly, reading the newspapers. Sewing, talking. I had arranged for her to go to a good hospital in January . . ."

"January!" Cherry interrupted. "But we were both born in November, Amy and I!"

"Yes, but one of you came two months too early." Emma went on with the story. "I was going to Fred, and if necessary bring in his brother, for the judge had moved out here then, and have them acknowledge his child. But it all came out differently.

When I came upstairs one wet November afternoon I found her in bed. Her trouble had come upon her two months too soon. I slipped down and telephoned old Doctor Povlitski. He had been a friend of mine when I took the nurses' training course in the hospital, and I knew he would keep our secret.

"The old Madame was out, Fred wasn't home, and Fred's wife was dozing in her room. The doctor came in quietly the side way—I looked out for that—but 15 minutes before he arrived Lottie's little girl, very tiny, but healthy enough, was born. There was nothing for him to do; he went away, and left her to me. And then I had some thinking to do again, for there isn't any hiding a new baby very long."

"Four nights later," Emma continued, "we heard a good deal of laughing and calling downstairs so I made some errand to go down to Mrs. Fred's room, and then came up and reported to Lottie. Mrs. Fred's father had arrived, and had brought the baby everything—his pram and chair and crib, his silver bowl and plate, and they'd been opening them up and making a great fuss.

"Well, old Mr. Wellington went away, and the Madame went to her room, and things settled down. As soon as she could be moved I was going to get Lottie to a boarding house I knew of. So I was breathing easier.

"I settled Lottie and the baby off for the night, and went to my room. This was maybe eleven o'clock. I was undressed, and just getting into bed when I heard the baby cry and went into Lottie's room.

"Her bed was tumbled and she was gone. I ran to the stairhead and saw lights in the hallway below and Lottie crossing it. Then I heard Lottie's voice in Mrs. Fred's room, and then Fred shouting. I don't know how I got down there. Mrs. Fred had stumbled back toward her bed and was staring at Lottie. There was a terrible silence when I got there, and then Amelia said in a whisper, 'You lie!'

"'I don't lie,' Lottie said. She was so weak she was leaning against a chair and her voice was hoarse and weak too. 'Ask him!' she said. "And it's not fair, it's not fair that your child will have everything — wealth and position and cribs and bowls—and all I get is disgrace!'

"'Don't,' Fred said, 'oh, don't let my mother know about this!' Amelia looked at him, and her face was like chalk. 'Fred, it isn't true?' she said. 'Yes,' he said very quietly, 'it's true.'

"That was all I heard. I got Lottie upstairs; I was afraid it had killed her. She was crying wildly but after a while she sobbed only now and then, and I was creeping back to bed again when the old Madame called me. Amelia was having hysterics and for a few minutes it seemed as if we couldn't bring her around. From screaming with laughter she went into real screaming, and in a few minutes I told Fred to call the hospital and tell her doctor we were taking her there—that the baby was coming. But we didn't have time to move her, and when the poor tiny baby came into the world it didn't look as if it could last an hour.

"The doctor was there then and had brought a nurse; they had the ambulance at the door and they said Amelia was sinking—it was only a matter of minutes unless they could get her to the hospital for a transfusion. Fred had rushed on ahead to have his blood tested, and Madame went with the doctor and Amelia. 'I'm afraid the baby won't live,' the doctor said to me, for you were as blue as an iceberg and about as cold."

"I was!" Cherry exclaimed in a whisper.

"Yes, it was you. I did what I could with hot water and an eyedropper, fixed the crib, tearing open the packages of blankets and new beautiful monogrammed sheets, laid you in them with a hot-water bottle at your feet and ran upstairs to tell Lottie and get my night wrapper.

"'Mrs. Fred's had her poor little baby,' I said to Lottie. 'It's a valvular case, I think. It can't live the night through. I'm going down to sit by it and wait until the old Madame comes back.'

"Then I went downstairs and began a long vigil. Once Mrs. Marshbanks telephoned Fred's wife was very low. How was the baby? I had to say something cheerful; I said she looked much better. It was about five o'clock when Fred came in. I'd been within hearing of the child all the time, but I'd gone into the dressing room to drink a cup of coffee and twice I'd been out to telephone in Mrs. Marshbanks' room.

"He looked deathly; they'd taken a pint of blood from him, saving Amelia's life, he said. He came into fling himself down for some sleep. But first he took a look at the baby.

"'Why Emma, she's small but she'll make the grade. She looks like a different baby!' he said. I went over and looked down expecting to see you, breathing your very last, maybe—but instead I recognized Lottie's child."

Emma's breath had been coming shallow and fast as she reached the last phrases. Now she was perfectly still, and the room was still.

"She'd changed them—changed us!" Cherry said in a whisper.

"Lottie. She'd slipped downstairs while I was out of the room, put her own baby into the crib, carried you upstairs. I don't know," Emma said, "whether—if I'd had time to think, if I'd had my wits about me — I mightn't have told him, then and there. But I was like a person struck senseless. What it meant to me, what it meant to Lottie, what it would give Lottie's baby if the other baby died, and if Lottie mightn't be in danger of—oh, I don't know what, prison maybe—if they found out. Anything!

"I stood there, struck silent, and before we turned away Mrs. Marshbanks and old Mr. Wellington were in the room. 'Not living, Emma?' she said, coming to the crib. 'Living!' Fred said, 'and she looks all right! 'Why, little girl,' the old man said, in that kind voice of his, 'you may stay with us yet. This is good news for Amelia,' he said, 'and we'll get it to her right away. Yes,' he said, 'you catch onto my finger as if you had a good deal of spunk, baby. Emma, I thank God for this! The doctor told us it was one chance in a hundred. My little granddaughter looks pretty well, to me!'

"That finished me. I couldn't say a word then. I thought of the little thing upstairs, perhaps dead already. I don't think I thought it all out, Cherry. But anyway, I acted as if I had. I heard my own voice saying, 'She's had a bath and some sleep, and she does look stronger.' Immediately Fred burst into tears; he was a tender-hearted fellow, and he'd grown up some that night. The Judge and old Mr. Wellington said they'd go back to the hospital and wait until Amelia was awake, and give her the good news.

"Fred followed me into the hall. 'Emma,' he said, 'you know what your sister said last night, after my wife fainted?'

"I was so tired—so frightened, all I could do was nod.

"'Was it true?' he asked me. "I've been married six years, and Amelia and I have always wanted a baby . . . Tell me that Lottie was scaring me."

"She's not going to have a baby,' I said, looking him right in the eye.

"'Oh, thank God, thank God! If she heard anything or guesses anything I can tell my wife that!' he said. 'Tell her I'm sorry. That I've always been sorry.'

"He went into his room. I went upstairs to Lottie's room. She was lying in bed, wide awake, with a rested, triumphant expression in here eyes.

"'My little girl,' she said in a whisper, 'will have what she's entitled to. This one will be no worse off. Look at her, Emma, she can't live. Who's hurt? Little Charlotte's with her own father, and a nameless little baby gets buried.'

"I couldn't speak about it. The world seemed to have gone to pieces about me. I went over and looked at you. It would have killed Amelia Marshbanks to give up the healthy child that was asleep downstairs and put the leaden little thing that was you in her place. You seemed hardly breathing; for days you flickered between life and death. And if you had gone, Lottie's baby was safe and you no worse off.

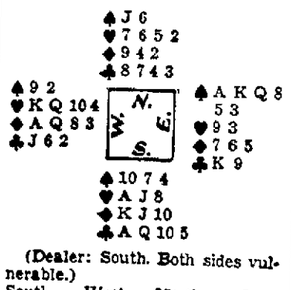
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

REMEMBER TO DOUBLE

ONE OF the beauties of a double to suggest a takeout, in place of making a takeout yourself, is the fact that your partner may decide to leave it in and whale the everlasting daylights out of the poor declarer. This is particularly true when an opening No Trump bid has been passed by the bidder's partner, and the fourth-hand considers taking action. Some people with a good suit in this position will overcall, thus giving up a chance for the big penalties to be scored if their partners leave in a double.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	Pass	2 ♠

Imagine the bidding ending there. West reasoned that, if his partner was not very weak, with an inordinately long suit, he would double. So he was afraid to take the bidding to the three level.

The same No Trump opener was used at another table, but in that case East doubled and West passed it. Reckoning South as more likely to be strong in clubs than in the major suit, he figured his partner to be doubling mainly on a good spade suit, so led the spade 9. East ran six tricks in his suit and returned the diamond 7 to the J and Q. The A took the eighth trick, and the heart K was returned to the A. South cashed the diamond K and club A, then gave up the last two tricks to the club K and heart Q. That put him down four doubled, for 1,000 points, a big top score.

Most East-West pairs reached 4-Spades, making the contract easily, because South opened with 1-Club. But where the 1-No Trump opening was used, opportunity was knocking on the door of East and West.

Your Week-End Problem.

If West leads the 4 of the unbid suit, and East, with one sure entry in another suit, sees the K-5 of his partner's suit in the dummy and holds the J-10-2 himself, what card should he play, and why?

Home Runs Account for Braves' Markers In 6 to 4 Win

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Harry Albrecht looked up from his usual three-hour breakfast and morning paper to observe: "I see where Joe DiMaggio has hit in 33 consecutive games. That's hitting!"

"Yes," I agreed, "the only way to stop his string is to walk him. They tried that on Ty Cobb one time when he was in a streak, and Ty started jumping across the plate to get his swings. So they made it illegal to hit out of the batter's box."

"I saw Ty Cobb play his first game in Detroit," Albrecht recalled. That was in 1905 after Cobb had burned up the South Atlantic league with Atlanta, stealing 40 bases in 104 games.

"I remember they had him advertised as THE FIRST APPEARANCE OF THE GEORGIA PEACH," said Harry, "so of course I went out to see the Peach perform.

"He stole second in that first game, and ripped the second baseman's leg wide open.

"From that day on I was prejudiced against Ty Cobb. I recognized he was the greatest player in baseball, but he was also the dirtiest, and dirty players have no place in sport," Albrecht concluded.

Incidentally DiMaggio has to hit in only 41 consecutive games to tie the American league record set by George Sisler from July 27 to Sept. 17, 1922.

The all-time major league record is 44, set by Willie Keeler at Baltimore April 22 to June 18, 1897, and the modern National league mark is 33 by Rogers Hornsby Aug. 13 to Sept. 19, 1922.

It's a coincidence that St. Louis saw both the American and modern National league records set at the same time, Sisler for the Browns and Hornsby for the Cards, with Sisler's streak ending just two days before the Rajah's.

Grover Hartley is having his financial difficulties again, or yet, with the Findlay Oilers. Grover's threat of last winter to move the club to Marion or someplace else was echoed recently when the Findlay club issued this statement:

"It is humiliating to the management to have to plead to the citizens of Findlay, and to beg year after year for financial support. We also appreciate the fact that many people are sick and tired of hearing our call for help, but unless the team is better supported through attendance at games, and unless we can obtain further financial assistance, we will have to suspend operations and drop from the league."

Grover's Groan (sh)
We had the pep, we thought we'd gain,
We led the league, then came the rain.

Fremont, now at the head of the procession in the Ohio State league, also is feeling the financial pinch because of rained-out games.

Unable to meet a $750 payroll Monday, President Fred Rinehart called a hurried meeting of the club directors to discuss ways and means of meeting the emergency.

The Green Sox are still playing, and still leading the league. Any poker player could tell 'em they couldn't quit winners.

Hitters on both clubs had a sparse evennig as Musille of the sparse evening as Musille of the hits in the game. No batsman garnered more than one bingle.

Indians Pin Hopes On Milnar

Big Al Given Job Of Trimming Washington.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Indians found some consolation today in the way their recently restored batting strength is sticking with them—even if it doesn't always count.

The Tribe collected 16 hits off three pitchers in the opener of a three-game series with the Washington Senators, who used their 14 safe blows to good advantage in winning 7 to 6.

It was the third consecutive day that Cleveland made more than 15 hits, but the long ones preceded the short one, and to make matters worse the relief pitching collapsed.

Their league leadership over New York's Yankees cut to two games by the loss, the Indians nominated Southpaw Al Milnar, winner of six, to put them back in the victory column. Washington also chose a left-hand pitcher—Ken Chase.

Jeff Heath continued his "big stick" work with three doubles and a single to pace Cleveland's attack yesterday. Gee Walker contributed three singles and Clarence Campbell two.

Ken Keltner belted his 12th home run of the season into the left field bleachers in the first inning for the Tribe's first score.

Making his first appearance in a game since he was beaned by Chase ten days ago, Roy Weatherly batted for Smith in the eighth and doubled against the right field wall. He is expected to return to the line-up Sunday.

If the New York Yankees never had their super-teams of superstars—Ruth, Gehrig, Gomez, Lazzeri and the rest—this year's club might be called great.

Fans often get excited over teams nowhere near as powerful as the present Yankees, who are handicapped in gaining recognition because the memory of exploits of their marvelous predecessors lingers.

Yet the way the bombers are blasting in the American league right now, there is a possibility they will become another scourge.

The Yankees are in second place, to be sure, but they have beaten the pacesetting Cleveland Indians seven times in 10 games and didn't really get rolling until recently.

They have won 10 of their past 12 games and looked impressive in doing it. They have had fine pitching and amazing hitting. In 16 consecutive games they have walloped 27 home runs. Joe DiMaggio has hit safely in 33 straight contests, matching the great streak of Rogers Hornsby in 1922 in the National league, and just eight short of the mark George Sisler set that same season in the American league.

The Yankees crushed the Detroit Tigers yesterday, 14-4. They amassed 17 hits for 29 bases. Every man made a hit, every player scored at least one run, and all but one player drove in at least a run. DiMaggio collected four hits.

The Boston Red Sox, outhit for once, managed to beat the St. Louis Browns, 4-2, in the only other American league game.

The Brooklyn Dodgers improve their position in the National league by clipping the Cincinnati Reds, 6-2, behind the three-hit pitching of Chubby Hugh Casey.

The New York Giants scored five runs in the eighth inning of a night game at St. Louis to beat the Cardinals, 6-2, and cut their first-place margin to two games. Lefty Larry French pitched four-hit ball to bring the Chicago Cubs a 5-0 shutout over the Boston Braves.

The Philadelphia Phillies, who lost a big lead and their ball game to the Cardinals Thursday, repeated the same trick against the Pittsburgh Pirates and lost 7-6.

Al Takes Nod Over Tom Blue

Mansfielders Win Three Of Five Ashland Bouts.

HEADED by Al Sauer, a Mansfield contingent of amateur battlers visited Ashland last night and after the shouting was all over had emerged with a record of three wins in five bouts.

Middleweight Sauer tangled with the classy Tommy Blue of Cleveland in a semi-final match and decisioned the Cleveland boy in five fast rounds.

There were no knock-downs in the bout. Sauer mixed his attack with a strong left jab and some sturdy infighting. He was in command of the situation all the way.

Leonard Waddell in a featherweight match with Joe Krill of Cleveland got off to a slow start but gradually turned on the steam to cop the nod at the end of three rounds.

Taking advantage of Cleveland Joe Potter's weakness for left hooks, Dick Schwartzel, 140, of Mansfield, shot them over all the way to win a decision in three fast rounds.

Bob Garber, 142, Mansfield ran into the tough Warren Strine, 144, Ashland and lost a three round decision. Garber took a nine count in the second but managed to weather the storm.

* * *

James Alexander, 139, Mansfield, lost an unpopular decision to Bob Miller, 140, of Loudonville in a three round match.

Stars Tangle At Inverness

Three Top Duos Battle In Four-Ball Matches.

By FRITZ HOWELL

TOLEDO —(AP)— Leaders in the seventh anual $7,000 Inverness four-ball matches faced crucial tests in today's pair of 18-hole rounds, the slate calling for the three top-berth ducs to battle each other.

The schedule promised to scramble the standings, should the leaders hold each other in check, for under the Inverness round-robin scoring plan any of the lower position twosomes might take over the pace-setting role.

Ben Hogan, the year's No. 1 money winner and leader for the Vardon trophy, and partner Jimmy DeMaret won two matches yesterday to go out front with a plus five rating, but they were to face Byron Nelson, P. G. A. title-holder, and long-driving Jimmy Thomson in today's first round.

Nelson and Thomson are in second place with a plus four rating, one count off the pace. The afternoon slate calls for Nelson and Thomson to battle Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, only two-time winners of the classic, who climbed from last to third place with twin wins yesterday.

Golden-Russell Leads League

Golden Russell golfers continue to hold the lead in the News–Journal women's golf league at Possum Run although their state pub-links champion, Thelma Linster dropped a point to Florence Adams and a 14-stroke handicap yesterday.

The loop-leaders and Meder Recreation split even, and so did Bates' Candies and De Milo Beauty Salon.

McNeill Upset By Frankie Parker

CHICAGO —(AP)— Frank Parker has set himself up as the man to beat for the national clay courts tennis championship.

The Spring Lake, N. J., player served up a clue last Sunday by trouncing Don McNeill of Gainbier, O., in the finals of the St. Louis triple a tournament. Yesterday Parker left no doubt about it when he again whipped the national champion, this time to reach the finals of the singles event he won in 1939.

In defeating McNeill, 3-6, 6-0, 6-4, 6-2, Parker also upset Bobby Riggs' hopes for a championship rematch with McNeill, who carried off the title last year.

* * *

Riggs, to reach the finals, must dispose of Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., today. It was the only singles match schedule, the rest of the program being devoted to doubles play.

Three Players Ousted From Game By Umps

Eddie Mutryn Hits Two for Circuit, Wolper and Ankrum Tag Four-Baggers

THE BLAST was on at the Fairground last night as Mansfield's Braves defeated Findlay 6 to 4—the blast of balls over the barrier and the blast of ball players at the umpires.

The Braves chalked up all six of their runs on four circuit blasts, while Umpire Haag, behind the plate, soaked up the verbal blasts of more than several irate players.

He who blasts last blasts best, was the Haag reaction as he tossed Manager Alex Clowson of the Braves, Bill McGrath, former Brave playing first base for Findlay, and Right Fielder Shank out of the game.

Out of the game he tossed 'em, and off of the diamond, but he didn't toss 'em out of the park, though it isn't to be recorded that he didn't try.

No one in the stands was in a position to tell whether Haag was right or wrong in his decisions on balls and strikes which started the arguments leading to the banishment of the recalcitrant athletes, but something must have been wrong out there for at no time this season have the players waxed so wrathful in their tirades at the umpires as the Mansfields and the Findlays did last night.

Clowson was banned for throwing his bat after a called third, which is a common practice even after a batter swings lustily. McGrath and Shank were given the air for cussing the umps, though other players on the scene reported neither one indulged in that oratorical sport.

But there were happier highlights of the game than the debate league at home plate, and chief among them was the fence-clearing and game-winning slugging of Eddie Mutryn, Fred Wolpert and Bob Ankrum.

After Findlay gained a two-run lead in the first on three hits and three errors, Flinger Freddie flailed a two-run homer over the left-field corner fence to knot the count.

An error and a double gave the Oilers a one-run lead again in the third, but Eddie Mutryn evened that up with a drive over the left field wall near the scoreboard in the fifth.

Shank hit for the circuit in the seventh to again put Grover Hartley's club in the lead, but in the last half of the same frame Mutryn sent a towering fly over the dead center-field barrier scoring Morse ahead of him for the tying and winning runs.

Just for good measure Bob Ankrum pasted a wallop over the left-field wall in the eighth.

Nova to Meet Joe Louis

Billy Conn Return Match Sidetracked by Jacobs.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Lou Nova of California signed a contract today to fight Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship in September.

Promoter Mike Jacobs said that the date and site would be announced soon.

Ray Carlen, Nova's manager, said Lou would leave in a few days for the Maine woods where he will spend seveay weeks getting into condition.

Jacobs, deciding on Nova instead of giving Billy Conn a return match, pointed out that there are "more outstanding heavyweight challengers available than in many years." "However," he added, "we decided on Nova because he is the only challenger who has not met Louis."

Neither Nova nor Louis will fight again before the September meeting. Louis believes he fractured one of his right wrist bones in Wednesday's defense against Conn and will have the arm X-rayed. Regardless of the outcome, he will take a vacation before resuming training.

ASSOCIATION SEES ACTION ONCE MORE

(By Associated Press)

The American Association got back into full swing today after an off day for all but the Twin-City clubs, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Moreover, the league leading Millers took full advantage of this restricted activity last night to defeat St. Paul, 9 to 6, and stretch their margin over second place Kansas City to a full game. The victory was the seventh in the last 10 starts for Minneapolis.

Your Ohio hunting license for 1941 will be good until Aug. 31, next year. After Aug. 31, next year, hunting permits will go into effect on Sept. 1 and will expire on Aug. 31, in the following year. Your fishing license for this year can be legally used, as in the past, until Dec. 31, 1941. But the 1942 fishing permits will remain in effect until Feb. 28, 1943. After that fishing licenses will begin on March 1, and terminate on the last day of February the following year. These new dates (now law) were made so that all regulations will remain in effect during the term of the licenses. In the past when hunting or fishing licenses were purchased, the digest of the laws were often changed and incorrect before the licenses expired.

CALL 8 MEN

County Draft Boards Receive New Induction Orders.

Richland county selective service boards received a call today for eight men to leave about July 11, marking the first request for men the county has received for July.

County boards have been asked to send 119 men to camps this month. A group of 44 selectees is scheduled to leave June 28. Three colored youths will leave from here next Monday.

The advance call today is for three men each from the No. 1 and No. 3 board districts. The board 2 district will send only two men.

Boards 1 and 3 have completed mailing their questionnaires and Board 2 is expected to have all of its blanks out to registrants before July 1 registration of men who have recently become 21.

MIAMI WATCHES NEW BUILDINGS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—(U.P.)—This resort city has placed a ban on skyscrapers, limiting the height of buildings to 14 stories.

The city council passed the height limitation ordnance as a safety measure in event of a hurricane striking the island city.

The 1940 census report showed Miami Beach's population increased from 6,494 to 28,012 in the last decade.

STOCKS DISPLAY MILD TREND TO FORE ON MARKET

U. S. Steel, General Motors Lead Gainers; Oil Men Study FDR Decree.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Leading stocks displayed mild forward tendencies in today's early market dealings.

Gainers included U. S. Steel, General Motors, Standard Oil (NJ) and Western Union.

Of prime interest to holders of oil shares was the presidential decree placing all exports of petroleum products from the east coast under federal control.

Those watching the rails found satisfaction in estimates equipment makers expected to turn out freight cars at the rate of some 10,000 monthly by the end of the year as the result of government priorities issued to this industry.

DOORS CLOSED FOR 50 YEARS

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — A curious person asked how long has it been since the front doors of the U. S. Treasury were open.

Treasury officials checked up and found that the massive front entrance had been closed to the public for more than 50 years.

The reason: most people just prefer to go in the back and side doors.

COLLISION FATAL

SPRINGFIELD — (INS) — Sixteen-year-old Charles Lee Brown, jr., was dead today, victim of an automobile-truck collision southeast of Springfield. The victim was hurled from the rumble seat of the auto.

ITALIANS TOLD TO CLOSE U. S. CONSULATES

Officials Ordered to Leave American Territory By July 15.

credited representation in Washington.

"It is contemplated that all such withdrawals and closures shall be effective before July 15, 1941."

A similar order was issued last Monday directing that all German consuls and employes of German propaganda agencies leave the country by July 10.

After disclosing the requested withdrawal of the Italian consuls, Welles announced that a note was dispatched late yesterday to the German charge d'affaires, in Washington, Hans Thomsen, which stated that President Roosevelt had directed the state department to transmit to the German embassy "for the information of your government" a copy of the president's message to congress on the sinking of the Robin Moor.

The president's message, with its vigorous denunciation of the unlawful sinking the American merchantman in the middle of the South Atlantic on May 21, represented the strongest language formally delivered to the German government by the United States since the last World war.

Welles also announced that instructions have been sent to the American embassies in Berlin and Rome to inform the German and Italian governments that the United States rejects all allegations made against the American consular officials whose recall has been requested.

At the same time, Welles said the American embassies in the Axis capitals had been instructed to make complete arrangements for the withdrawal of the consular agents as requested by the German and Italian government.

Gayda Calls Message Step Toward War

ROME—(INS)—Virginio Gayda, press spokesman for Premier Mussolini, charged today that President Roosevelt's message yesterday on the Robin Moor sinking, was couched in language so strong it would have been an outright "ultimatum"—had it been in the form of a diplomatic note.

Gayda, writing in the Giornale D'Italia, bluntly called the message a "new and long step toward war."

"The message," Gayda said, "was couched in strong, aggressive, publicly intimidatory, gross, arbitrary and offensive language which would have been a real ultimatum had it been presented in a formal diplomatic note."

ACCIDENT FATAL

BELLEFONTAINE — (INS) — Owell Dewey Davis, 70, died of a fractured skull suffered in an automobile accident Tuesday. He was a former superintendent of the Worthington Methodist home.

City Given 'Clean Bill' on Report of State Examiner

The city of Mansfield was given a "clean bill" today in a report by Joseph T. Ferguson, state auditor, on the examination of the city's records from Nov. 19, 1938 to Aug. 31, 1940.

Except for reports on a few errors in bookkeeping, practically no criticism was made in the report. Only $159.90 was discovered in a summary of findings due for recovery. Although a total of $1,962.83 in findings was actually reported, payment of $1,802.93 which had been allocated to the wrong funds or not deposited brought the net recovery findings down to $159.90.

Commendation was given the office of City Auditor Paul L. Kelley in the report of the examiner, R. B. Beverly, who stated that "all records and accounts in this department are being kept in a proper and creditable manner."

The report also pointed out that in connection with Kelley's efforts to keep the various departments within the appropriations voted by council, "We noted no appropriation accounts," said that report, "that were overdrawn and it is evident that a great deal of time and attention has been given to the proper keeping of the various appropriation accounts."

The only recommendation made in the report on the office of Mayor W. J. Locke was that proper lists of all public dance halls and barber shops be made "to permit rapid verification of this source of revenu eat the time of an examination."

The examination covered the period from November, 1938, to September, 1940.

Flee France In Nazi Plane to Aid Britain

These two daring Frenchmen, unidentified by the British Information Bureau, seized a German training plane (background) in occupied France and flew to England to join the Free French forces there.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Hold Festival—An ice cream social will be held today beginning at 6 p. m. at the Olivesburg Methodist church. Home-made ice cream will be served and proceeds will be used for church purposes.

Attends Summer Classes—Charles Ireland, son of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Ireland, 24 Glessner avenue, is attending the summer session at Wooster college. He is studying English and philosophy in classes which will close August 9.

Wrong Car Named—George E. May, 386 West Third street, was the owner of the auto which broke loose Thursday night from its parking space on West Third street and crashed into a porch at the home of Mrs. P. M. Urschel, 356 West Third street. Ernest L. Wintersteen was reported as the car owner yesterday.

Club Holds Picnic—Nearly 250 members and guests of the Mansfield-Shelby Foreman's club attended the club's annual picnic last night at Spiker's grove. Shel- by and Ashland members defeated the Mansfielders, 7 to 6, in a softball game. The picnic program was in charge of George Mensch of the Standard Oil company.

Bike Thieves Active—Two more Mansfield youths reported bicycles stolen last night while they were attending moton picture shows. Robert B. Heuss, 122 Western avenue, told police his bike was taken while he was in the Majestic theater. Richard Harbaugh, 480 West Sixth street, also reported his cycle stolen while he was in the Madison theater.

NICKELS PAY HOSPITAL BILL

READING, Pa. —(U.P.)— When Charles Weber went to St. Joseph's hospital to see his wife and their new baby, he first walked to the cashier's window and plunked a bag full of change on the counter.

"There's $40 there," he told Sister Beatrice Gerard. Then he went upstairs to see his wife.

For a half hour attendants counted the nickels and found there was one too many. When Weber returned for his receipt, the sister called it to his attention.

"You were one nickel over," she said.

"Thank you," said Weber, pocketing the coin.

RESTORE CHURCH

TUCSON, Ariz —(U.P.)—Restoration of old San Xavier del Bac mission, which was damaged by rain and lightning last year, is seen as a definite possibility.

Two movements are underway to restore the ancient Spanish mission to its original state.

In cloth and cost they're nearly as light as tatooing.

The first question a hot man asks is "How cool is it?"

The next is usually "How much?"

To both questions we can truthfully reply that both the suits and the amount you spend for them are lighter than your last summer suit or your last summer suit price.

OH, MAC, I WAS ONLY TRYING TO HELP. I HAD NO IDEA I'D TREATED YOUR METALLIC SWEATER SO IT WOULD GIVE YOU A RASH
WELL, IT DID
IT'S ONLY A MILD SKIN IRRITATION- A LITTLE SALVE WILL FIX IT UP
I'M SO GLAD- YOU SEE, IT WAS MY FAULT- IT WAS DUE TO A CHEMICAL I USED
YES? WHAT WAS THE NAME OF IT?
IT WAS CALLED GUFFLE'S SOLUTION
GUFFLE'S SOLUTION! GREAT SCOTT! WE MUST GET THIS MAN INTO AN EMERGENCY WARD AT ONCE!
RUSS COSTOVER
IT'S ALL RIGHT- WE'VE SAVED HIS LIFE
THANK GOODNESS
OOOH
GEE, DOC, THAT'S OKAY; ONLY YOUR TREATMENT IS WORSE THAN SIX CASES OF RHEUMATISM AT ONCE
YOU'RE LUCKY, THOUGH, AFTER BEING POISONED BY GUFFLE'S SOLUTION
DID I SAY GUFFLE'S SOLUTION MERCY, IT WASN'T THAT! IT WAS DUPPLES SOLUTION- WHAT COULD I HAVE BEEN THINKING OF?
SO YOUR LITTLE SLIP OF THE TONGUE ONLY COST ME SIX HOURS OF AGONY- DON'T EVER SPEAK TO ME AGAIN
MAC!
RUSS COSTOVER
OH, DEAR, MAC IS SORE AT ME, BECAUSE I MADE A SLIP OF THE TONGUE THAT CAUSED THE DOCTOR TO GIVE HIM THAT SWELL TREATMENT
ARE YOU MISS JONES? I'M OBIE MAY, MR. SIMPKINS SENT FOR ME
WHY, YES, HOW DO YOU DO?
I'VE HEARD SO MUCH ABOUT YOU
I LIKE THIS CHAP, WATCH ME CULTIVATE HIM AND IGNORE MAC- HE SHOULDN'T HAVE BEEN SO SORE
OH, TILLIE
LISTEN, TILLIE- THIS CHAP'S A CHEMIST I'VE CALLED IN TO PERFECT MAC'S BULLET-PROOF CLOTH- YOU'VE GOT TO PERSUADE MAC TO LET HIM HELP
COMP
RUSS COSTOVER
MR SIMPKINS MAC IS PEEVED AT ME, BECAUSE MY SLIP OF THE TONGUE MADE THE DOCTOR GIVE HIM THAT AWFUL TREATMENT
DON'T WORRY- MAC'S FORGIVEN YOU BEFORE
MR GAY THE BOSS WANTS ME TO PERSUADE MAC TO LET YOU HELP PERFECT HIS INVENTION
WELL WITH YOUR CHARM YOU SHOULD SUCCEED
OF COURSE, MAC IS SORE AT ME NOW, BUT I'LL HAVE THAT OVER IN A JIFFY
I'M SURE OF IT
OH, MAC
GRRRRR— TRYING TO MAKE ME JEALOUS, EH? GRRR! DON'T TALK TO ME ABOUT ANYTHING, ANYTIME, ANYWHERE
RUSS COSTOVER
MAC, I'VE CALLED IN A CHEMIST TO HELP YOU PERFECT YOUR INVENTION
NO, YOU DON'T- I'LL PERFECT IT, MYSELF
WHY, THE GUY MIGHT STEAL MY SECRET
NO, HE WOULDN'T
I KNOW OBIE GAY WELL AND I'VE NEVER KNOWN HIM TO STEAL ANYTHING- WHY, THERE HE IS WITH TILLIE NOW
SMACK
WELL, YOU'VE KNOWN HIM TO STEAL SOMETHING NOW! GRRRR!
RUSS COSTOVER
MISS JONES, I GOT ONE OF MAC'S BULLET-PROOF SWEATERS FROM SIMPKINS AND EXPERIMENTED I'VE SOLVED THE PROBLEM
WE MUST GO AND TELL MAC
I'VE GOT IT SO IT DOESN'T CAUSE A RASH ANY MORE AND IT'S EVEN MORE BULLET-PROOF
MAC WILL SURE ACCEPT YOUR HELP, NOW EVERYTHING'S ROSY
MAC
IT'S ALL RIGHT- THEY DIDN'T GET THE FORMULA- I SWALLOWED IT-
-BUT SAY! IT WAS THE ONLY COPY I HAD AND I CAN'T REMEMBER IT- GOSH! I'M SUNK

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

I DON'T BLAME YOU FOR BEING ANXIOUS TO VISIT CAPTAIN SETH AND HIS YOUNG ARMY — THEY'RE NOT ONLY THE LARGEST, BUT, I FIGGER, THEY'RE THE HAPPIEST FAMILY I KNOW
CAPTAIN JIM TOOK ME TO VISIT THEM YESTERDAY — AN' IT WAS JUST LIKE GOIN' TO A SWELL PICNIC — EVERY-ONE WAS LAUGHIN' ALL THE TIME
GEE, ZERO — CAPTAIN AN' MRS. SETH HAS FOURTEEN KIDS — I LIKE 'EM ALL — I REMEMBER IDA AN' IRMA, 'CAUSE THEY'RE TWINS — BUT I CAN'T REMEMBER ANY OF THE OTHER KIDS' RIGHT NAMES
HOWDY, ANNIE
HELLO, ANNIE
COME ON, GANG — ANNIE IS HERE
GOODY
GOODY
GEE!
I DON'T BLAME YOU FOR NOT REMEMBERING THE NAMES OF ALL CAPTAIN SETH'S CHILDREN — EVEN HE DON'T KNOW HALF OF THEM — WHEN A MAN HAS TWENTY-EIGHT CHILDREN —
"TWENTY-EIGHT"? G'WAN, CAPTAIN JIM — YOU'RE JUST FOOLIN' ME — THERE'S ONLY FOURTEEN
WELL, MAYBE I MISCOUNTED 'EM — I NEVER WAS MUCH OF A HAND AT 'RITHMETIC
DON'T PAY ANY ATTENTION TO HIM, ANNIE — HE'S ONLY TEASING YOU — I DON'T BLAME YOU FOR LIKING CAPTAIN SETH'S FINE FAMILY —
DARRELL McCLURE
CAPTAIN SETH AND HIS WIFE NEVER HAD ANY TOO MUCH MONEY, BUT I ALWAYS SAY — THEY ARE THE RICHEST COUPLE IN TOWN
OH, HELLO, ANNIE — I'M GLAD TO SEE YOU COMING ALONG — HOW WOULD YOU LIKE SOME FRESH RAISIN COOKIES AND A GLASS OF NICE, COLD BUTTERMILK ?
HONEST, I THINK THAT WOULD BE GRAND — I JUST LOVE RAISIN COOKIES
AND I HAVE A NICE, BIG BONE FOR ZERO
MY HUSBAND SPOKE TO CAPTAIN JIM ABOUT HAVING YOU COME HERE AND LIVE WITH US AFTER HE SAILS ON HIS NEXT VOYAGE — I KNOW WE COULD MAKE YOU HAPPY HERE
GEE, I GUESS ANY KID WOULD BE LUCKY TO LIVE HERE — I THINK YOU'RE TERRIBLE NICE, BUT YOU KNOW I GOTTA LIVE WHEREVER CAPTAIN AN' MRS. JIM SEZ
DARRELL McCLURE
SO YOU LIKE LIVIN' IN THIS TOWN ! WELL, YOUNGSTER, I DON'T BLAME YOU — I'VE LIVED HERE FOR SIXTY YEARS AN' I AIN'T FIGGERIN' ON MOVIN' YET
I'M NOT A-SAYIN' ALL THE FOLKS THAT LIVE HERE ARE ANGELS WITH SNOWY WHITE WINGS WHO FLY 'ROUND PLAYIN' TUNES ON A HARP ALL THE TIME —
BUT MOST OF 'EM ACT MIGHTY HUMAN MOST OF THE TIME — 'COURSE, YOU'LL ALWAYS FIND A FEW BAD EGGS IN EVERY BARNYARD
DARRELL McCLURE
I DON'T KNOW MUCH ABOUT EGGS — BUT HONEST TO GOODNESS — I THINK ALL THE FOLKS WHO LIVE IN THIS TOWN ARE AWFUL NICE !!
I'LL BEJEWEL'D, ABBIE, IF THIS ISN'T THE FIRST PEACEFUL DAY I'VE HAD SINCE WE DROPPED THE HUMMING BIRDS ANCHOR IN THE HARBOR
MY STARS, JIM — I KNOW JUST HOW YOU FEEL — 'SEEMS LIKE EVERYONE IN TOWN WILL DIE, UNLESS WE PROMISE TO LET ANNIE LIVE WITH THEM, AFTER WE SAIL !
OF COURSE, I'M GLAD ANNIE IS SO POPULAR AND THAT FOLKS ARE NEIGHBORLY —
BUT 'BARKING HENS,' ABBIE — SHE'S ONLY ONE LITTLE GIRL — WE CAN'T PASS HER AROUND LIKE ICE CREAM AT A LAWN PARTY !!
DARRELL McCLURE
I'VE BEEN WAITING FOR CAPTAIN JIM SINCE BREAKFAST-TIME
NOW, CHILD, ARE YOU SURE THEY DIDN'T SAY WHERE THEY WERE GOING ?
OR WHEN THEY'D BE BACK ??
HONEST TO GOODNESS — THEY DIDN'T SAY NOTHIN' — JUST WENT AWAY, THAT'S ALL
GEE, ZERO — IT'S SO NICE AN' QUIET HERE — NO NOISE OR PEOPLE OR NOTHIN' —
EVERYBODY IN TOWN IS SWELL — BUT THEY ALL KEEP ASKIN' ME IF I'M GONNA LIVE AT THEIR HOUSE AN' WHEN IS CAPTAIN JIM GONNA MAKE UP HIS MIND AN' DECIDE WHO I AM GONNA LIVE WITH — AN' I JUST KEEP SAYIN', I DON'T KNOW — I WISHT I DID KNOW — 'CAUSE EVERYONE TREATS ME SO NICE — IT'S ALMOST LIKE HAVIN' REAL FOLKS OF YOUR OWN
DARRELL McCLURE
THEY ALL KEEP GIVIN' ME SWELL PIECES OF PIE AN' CAKE AN' CANDY — HONEST, IF CAPTAIN JIM DON'T MAKE UP HIS MIND PRETTY SOON, I'LL BE FATTER THAN A FAT LADY IN A CIRCUS

GOSH, EFFIE, THAT'S A MONSTER YA CAUGHT!! HE'LL MAKE A BARREL OF FISH-CHOWDER I WISH I KNEW HOW TO COOK, SO I COULD GIVE YA A HAND WITH HIM!!
THET'S ALL RIGHT, KNOTHAID . AH'LL DO ALL TH' COOKIN', M'GE'F ..
BUT YEW JES' TAG 'LONG WIF' ME!! AH'VE GOT ONE LEETLE CHORE FER YEW.
AH'M A-GOIN' T'LET YEW CLEAN THIS HYAR FEESH!!
YOUR FISH CHOWDER SOLD SWELL YESTERDAY, EFFIE!! ARE YA GOIN TO MAKE SOME MORE?
AH'VE DONE THET A READY!!
BUT HOW COULD YOU?.. YOU USED UP THAT WHOLE FISH YESTERDAY?
WAL, WHEN AH WANTS T'DO SUTHIN' AH DON'T LET A LEETLE THANG LAK' THET IN-TERFERE!!
BUT THAT'S IMPOSSIBLE . TO MAKE FISH-CHOWDER YOU MUST HAVE FISH!!
WHY, SHUX, ENNY COOK COULD DO THET...
.. BUT MAKIN' FEESH-CHOWDER 'THOUT FEESH WAL, M'PAPPY ALLUS SAID THET'S TH' TEST OF A REAL COOK!!
HEH! HEH! HEH! HEH!
NOW THAT EFFIE IS MAKING FISH-CHOWDER WITHOUT FISH, IT'S NOT REALLY HONEST TO SELL IT UNDER THAT NAME!!
THAT'S RIGHT"
I'VE BEEN LOOKIN' THROUGH THIS DICTIONARY FOR A NEW NAME, BUT I CAN'T FIND A GOOD ONE"
THIS IS A PROBLEM !!
WE NEED A WORD THAT'S SIMILAR.. SOMETHING THAT WILL SUGGEST "FISH-CHOWDER"
THAT'S EASY!! I'VE GOT IT....
LET'S JUST CALL IT "FISHLESS CHOWDER!!"
CALM DOWN, MUGGS AND TELL ME WHAT'S WRONG?
I THOUGHT I TOLD YOU TO GO TO THE SPORTING-GOODS STORE AND ORDER OUR NEW BASEBALL UNIFORMS"
WELL I WAS PRETTY BUSY SELLIN' FISH-CHOWDER, SO I ASKED REGGIE TO DO IT"
OH-OOO" YOU DUMB-BELL" WHAT DOES HE KNOW ABOUT BASEBALL UNIFORMS?
WHAT HAPPENED, MUGGS? DID HE PICK OUT SOME VIOLENT COLOR?
NO, NOT THAT. THE COLOR'S FINE...
BUT, BOY, WON'T WE LOOK CUTE PLAYIN' BASEBALL IN UNIFORMS WITH ETON COLLARS ATTACHED!!?
I TOLD EFFIE ABOUT REGGIE ORDERIN THE NEW UNIFORMS WITH SHIRTS CUT LIKE ETON JACKETS AND SHE THINKS IT'S A GOOD IDEA"
SHE WHAT?
LISTEN EFFIE, I CANCELED REGGIE'S ORDER FOR THE NEW UNIFORMS!"
WHY, EF THET HAIN'T TH' MOST MULE-HAIDED THANG AH EVER HEERD!
IF YOU THINK SKEETER AND I WOULD BE SEEN WEARIN' ETON JACKETS, YOU'RE WACKY!"
WAL, AH H'AIN'T NEVER SEEN THEM THAR NEW-FANGLED JACKETS, BUT AH'D SAY YOU AND SKEETER SHORE NEEDS SUTHIN' LAK' THET.
'CAUSE YEW TWO KNOTHAIDS DOES MORE EATIN' B'TWEEN INNINGS THAN ALL TH' REST O' TH' PLAYERS T'GATHER"

POLLY AND HER PALS

WELL, POLLY, CELESTE SNUBBE WAS FINALLY STOOD UP, HERSELF! I SAW THE WHOLE THING!
THEN DON'T TELL ME ABOUT IT, ETTIE
NICE ATTITUDE Y' TOOK, POLLY, BUT WON'T ETTIE BE SORE AT YUH FER NOT LISTENIN'?
OH, NO, PA. ETTIE KNOWS MY REASONS, AS WELL AS ANY GIRL WOULD--
6-16
SOME OF THE GANG ARE DROPPING IN THIS EVENING---AND BY THEN THE STORY WILL BE ENLARGED ENOUGH TO BE REALLY WORTH HEARING!
YER NEW HERE, SO IF ANY FRESH SALESMAN TRIES DATIN' YUH UP, JESS SAY YUH LIVES WAY OUT PAST TH' LAST CAR STOP!
THANKS, MR. PERKINS. SOME OF THEM HAVE BEEN PESTERING ME FOR DATES.
---BUT NOW WITH YOUR PLAN IT'LL BE A CINCH TO WEED OUT THOSE WHO HAVEN'T AUTOS!
6-17
SORRY, MR. FIPPS, BUT I FEARS I'LL HAFTA DECLINE YER OFFER OF A JOB
BUT, ASH!
YOU SAID YOU WANTED WORK-- AND THAT'S THE FIFTH JOB YOU'VE REFUSED!
TUT, TUT, TESSIE--- I HAS MY REASONS.
ALL THEM JOBS I, TURNED DOWN WUZ ALIKE---YUH DON'T WANT ME T' GIT INTO A RUT, DO YUH?
6-18
GLADYS IS KEEPING HOUSE---AND TRYING TO MAKE A GOOD JOB OF IT TOO!
THAT'S MARVELOUS, POLLY! POOR GLADYS--- SHE HAS A LOT TO LEARN
YES-- THE OTHER DAY SHE ASKED HER GROCER IF HE KNEW HOW THESE BIG FIRMS BAKED SLICED BREAD WITHOUT ALL THE SLICES STICKING TOGETHER--
6-18
OH, OH! THAT'S JERRY--- ENTERTAIN HIM, WILL YOU, PA, WHILE I GET DRESSED?
SO YER A LIFEGUARD, EH, SON? I SUPPOSE YOU'VE SAVED QUITE A LOT O' PEOPLE!
OH, NO, SIR---
I'M JUST SUPPOSED T' BE BEACH ATMOSPHERE - THEY HIRE SPECIAL GUYS T' DO ALL TH' RESCUE WORK!
6-20
COME ON DOWN TO SMITHERS POLLY-- I WANT TO GET WEIGHED
WHY WALK 'WAY DOWN THERE, GLADYS? HERE'S A WEIGHING-MACHINE RIGHT HERE!
I KNOW, BUT SMITHERS' SCALES ARE MUCH N'CER--IT MAKES YOU WEIGH FIVE OR SIX POUNDS LESS THAN YOU ACTUALLY DO!

G-MAN AND THE "LADY"

HERE WE ARE AT THE AIRPORT, "LADY". SEE ANYTHING OF THAT GIRL FRIEND OF YOURS WHO'S SUPPOSED TO BE LEAVING ON HER HONEYMOON?
NO... LET'S LOOK IN THE WAITING-ROOM!
SURE YOU DON'T HAVE YOUR DATES MIXED?
CERTAINLY NOT! GENERAL HEADQUARTERS HAS ORDERED ME TO MAKE THIS PLANE CONNECTION FOR THE EUROPEAN CLIPPER... GOT TO SHAKE THE G-MAN.
WHY - THERE SHE IS, NOW!
LADY LUCK, BE WITH ME ...I DON'T KNOW THAT GAL FROM EVE! I'LL TRY TO YANK HER INTO THE LADIES' LOUNGE — THEN I CAN SLIP OUT THE BACK WINDOW!
MEL GRAFF
SEE YOU IN A FEW MINUTES, X-9!
SHE'S TRYING TO DITCH ME BY GOING INTO THE LADIES' LOUNGE WITH THAT SUPPOSED FRIEND! HMM!
MAIS ALORS! JE NE COMPRENDS PAS BEAUCOUP D'ANGLAIS!
LISTEN, FRENCHIE... I'M TRYING TO GET AWAY FROM THAT MAN OUT THERE! GET AWAY — PARTIR! UNDERSTAND?
I WANT TO GET TO THAT PLANE OUTSIDE! I AM GOING OUT THE BACK WAY, THROUGH THE WINDOW! PLEASE WAIT HERE FIVE MINUTES.. ATTENDEZ! CINQUE MINUTES! COMPRENEZ?
OUI! MAIS POURQUOIS? WHY YOU DO THEES?
OH, I'M THE MADEMOISELLE FROM ARMENTIERES! I'M TRAVELLING ALONE! C'EST LA GUERRE! WISH ME LUCK!
MEL GRAFF
MY HUNCH WAS RIGHT! THE "LADY" THOUGHT SHE'D DUCK OUT A BACK WINDOW AND MAKE THAT PLANE BEFORE I GOT WISE!
MY, MY! THE BALCONY SCENE — AND UNREHEARSED!
WH—?
LISTEN, "LADY" — WE'RE WASTING TIME! I WANT TO KNOW WHAT YOU DID WITH "HILARY" — AND I WANT TO KNOW, QUICK!
ALL RIGHT! PUT ME DOWN!
FAIR ENOUGH! BUT WE'RE GOING BACK TO YOUR APARTMENT — AND YOU'RE GOING TO TALK!
TAXI!
MEL GRAFF
NOW THAT YOU REALIZE YOU CAN'T CATCH THAT PLANE TO EUROPE, SUPPOSE WE COME TO AN UNDERSTANDING! WHERE'S "HILARY," THE ECONOMIC ADVISER?
I DON'T KNOW WHAT YOU'RE TALKING ABOUT!
STOP PLAYING DUMB, "LADY!" IT'S OUT OF CHARACTER! YOU KNOW, AS WELL AS I DO, THAT THE SECRET FLATFEET, WHO SLUGGED BILL AND SNATCHED "HILARY," WERE ACTING UNDER YOUR ORDERS!
WELL — SUPPOSE THEY WERE?
I'M UNDER NO OBLIGATIONS TO TELL YOU ANYTHING! MY EMPLOYERS DON'T PAY ME TO ADVERTISE — QUITE THE OPPOSITE! AND THERE IS SUCH A THING AS LOYALTY!
LOYALTY! YOU'D MAKE BENEDICT ARNOLD BLUSH! I'VE INVESTIGATED YOUR ACTIVITIES AND AT THE MOMENT YOU'RE ON THE SPY PAYROLLS OF THREE DIFFERENT COUNTRIES — EACH UNFRIENDLY TO THE OTHERS!
MEL GRAFF
RIGHT! SO I AM A "LEG-MAN" FOR THE INTELLIGENCE STAFFS OF TWO OR THREE COUNTRIES WHO HAPPEN TO BE SNIPING AT EACH OTHER! A GAL'S GOT TO LIVE — AND THREE BOSSES PAY BETTER THAN ONE!
AND THREE FIRING SQUADS SHOOT BETTER THAN ONE, "LADY"!
NOTHING LIKE DOING THINGS IN THE GRAND MANNER!
HAVE IT YOUR WAY — I WANT TO KNOW WHAT HAPPENED TO "HILARY"!
DO I UNDERSTAND YOU ARE MAKING ME AN OFFER, X-9?
WHILE OUTSIDE...
H'MM! LIGHT IN "LADY'S" ROOM — SECRET POLICE ORDERS ARE FOR HER TO BE ON ROUTE TO EUROPE BY PLANE! - BETTER GO UP AND INVESTIGATE!
MAIL
MEL GRAFF
I WANT INFORMATION ABOUT WHAT HAPPENED TO "HILARY" — AND THERE'S NO OFFER WITH IT!
SORRY, X-9! I DON'T KNOW WHAT YOU'RE TALKING ABOUT.... HEY! THAT'S THE DOWNSTAIRS BELL!
GOOD GRIEF! IT'S ONE OF THE SECRET POLICE, CHECKING UP ON ME — AND I'M SUPPOSED TO BE ON THE PLANE TO EUROPE!
GET IN THE CLOSET — HE KNOWS I'M NOT ON THE PLANE! IF HE FINDS YOU HERE, HE'LL FIGURE I'VE SOLD OUT!
OKAY, "LADY", BUT DON'T TRY TO SELL ME OUT!
MEL GRAFF
GOOD EVENING, "LADY"! I AM AMAZED TO FIND YOU STILL IN TOWN... DID YOU DECIDE THAT ONE SO BEAUTIFUL COULD AFFORD TO DISREGARD SPECIAL ORDERS?
AH, MY DEAR QUISS — ALWAYS READY TO HATE A WOMAN! TAKE OFF YOUR HAT AND HAVE A SIP OF KRAUT JUICE!

TOOTS AND CASPER

THESE JEWELS ARE GORGEOUS, CASPER!
YES, I KNOW, TOOTS! BUT LISTEN, I WANT TO TELL YOU MY PLAN---
6-16
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
NEVER MIND IT, CASPER! I WISH YOU WOULD WORK OUT A PLAN TO GET ME SOME JEWELS LIKE THESE!
HAVE A HEART, TOOTS! THE BOSS IS A MILLIONAIRE-
-AND HIS WIFE CAN AFFORD JEWELS LIKE THAT!
THEN WHY DON'T YOU BECOME A MILLIONAIRE SO I CAN HAVE JEWELS TOO?
JIMMY MURPHY
IT WAS MEAN OF ME TO BECOME ENVIOUS OF MRS. PLUNKER'S JEWELS! AFTER ALL, CASPER IS DOING THE BEST HE CAN!
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
I CAN'T HELP BUT LAUGH AT HIM FOR TAKING IT SO SERIOUSLY-- IT EVEN TOOK HIS MIND OFF THE PLAN HE WAS SO ANXIOUS TO HAVE ME HEAR!
6-17
I'M CURIOUS TO KNOW WHAT THE PLAN IS, MYSELF! I'D BETTER TELL CASPER I WAS ONLY FOOLING ABOUT WANTING EXPENSIVE JEWELRY!
-BUT NO! I'LL KID HIM ALONG A LITTLE WHILE, AND HAVE SOME FUN WITH HIM!
JIMMY MURPHY
WHAT IS IT, CASPER? DO YOU WANT ME TO COME OVER NOW AND PULL THAT BUTLER ACT AT YOUR HOUSE?
NO, THAT'S OFF FOR A WHILE!
6-18
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
I BORROWED MRS. PLUNKER'S JEWELS FOR TOOTS TO WEAR AND IT GOT ME IN HOT WATER--NOW, SHE THINKS SHE OUGHT TO HAVE RITZY JEWELRY, TOO!
THAT'S JUST LIKE A WOMAN, CASPER!
I SHOULD HAVE KNOWN BETTER!
OF COURSE, YOU SHOULD! IT SERVES YOU RIGHT FOR PUTTING IDEAS INTO TOOTS'S HEAD!
WELL, SHE'LL HAVE TO GET THOSE IDEAS OUT OF HER HEAD!
JIMMY MURPHY
SOPHIE, YOU SEEM KIND OF UPSET SINCE CASPER WAS HERE LAST NIGHT!
I SHOULD THINK I WOULD BE UPSET! THE WAY YOU CRITICIZED POOR TOOTS!
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
WHY SHOULDN'T SHE HAVE FINE JEWELRY, THE SAME AS MRS. PLUNKER HAS? DON'T YOU THINK CASPER OWES IT TO HER? WHY SHOULDN'T A MAN MAKE SACRIFICES FOR HIS WIFE?
6-19
AND WHY SHOULDN'T I HAVE LOVELY JEWELRY, TOO? AND I WOULD HAVE, IF I HADN'T MARRIED A NO-GOOD LOAFER LIKE YOU! OH! WHAT FOOLS WE WOMEN ARE!
CASPER STARTED ALL THIS WITH THAT SECRET PLAN OF HIS, WHATEVER IT IS!
JIMMY MURPHY
CASPER, YOUR IDEA OF HAVING ME POSE AS YOUR BUTLER, AND DANNY AS YOUR CHAUFFEUR, AND THEN BORROWING YOUR BOSS'S WIFE'S JEWELS HAS CAUSED ME A LOT OF TROUBLE!
WHEN I CRITICIZED TOOTS FOR WANTING FINE JEWELS FOR HERSELF, SOPHIE TOOK TOOTS'S SIDE AND NOW I'M IN THE DOG-HOUSE! SOPHIE SEEMS TO THINK EVERY WOMAN IS ENTITLED TO A COLLECTION OF SPARKLERS!
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
STOP WORRYING, COLONEL HOOFER! TOOTS CONFESSED TODAY THAT SHE'S ONLY BEEN TEASING ME, AND THAT SHE GOT SOPHIE TO PULL THE SAME GAG ON YOU!
I'M SURE GLAD TO HEAR THAT-- BUT I MUST SAY THAT IF SOPHIE WAS ONLY PUTTING ON AN ACT, I'D NEVER HAVE GUESSED IT! SHE MUST HAVE A LOT OF TALENT!
JIMMY MURPHY 6-20
NOW THAT COL. HOOFER IS WISE THAT SOPHIE WAS NOT REALLY ANGRY ABOUT THE JEWELS, WHY DON'T YOU LET US BOTH IN ON THAT PLAN YOU'RE HATCHING, CASPER?
THAT'S RIGHT, TOOTS! WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT, CASPER?
I'M SORRY, COL. HOOFER, AND I HOPE YOU WON'T FEEL OFFENDED, BUT I WOULD LIKE TO TELL IT TO TOOTS IN PRIVACY! BUT I PROMISE TO LET YOU IN ON THE SECRET NEXT WEEK!
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
CASPER SURE IS MAKING A BIG MYSTERY OF HIS SCHEME -- ASKING ME TO POSE AS HIS BUTLER, AND DANNY AS HIS CHAUFFEUR! I WONDER WHAT'S THE BIG IDEA?
JIMMY MURPHY
SO DO WE, COLONEL HOOFER, AND WE'LL KNOW MONDAY!

IF IT HAPPENS LATE SATURDAY OR EARLY SUNDAY MORNING

It Will Be In The Sunday Edition of News-Journal

ETTA KETT

REMEMBER ME? I'M THE GIRL YOU'RE ENGAGED TO..." UNLESS YOU'VE CHANGED?
NO'-IT'S--IT'S JUST THAT I'M SURPRISED TO SEE YOU HERE AT THE BALL."
LET'S SNEAK AWAY EARLY! NOBODY WILL MISS US."
SWELL." WAIT HERE - I'LL GO GET THE CAR!
WHAT A JAM." I'LL HAVE TO RUSH HER HOME, THEN COME BACK AND GET ETTA!
I CAN'T STAY LONG." HAVE TO CHECK INTO THE BARRACKS EARLY." THE ARMYS FUSSY THAT WAY."
DON'T BE SILLY." DAD IS THE COMMANDANT HERE." YOU CAN STAY OUT AS LATE AS YOU LIKE -- AS LONG AS YOU'RE WITH ME."
HOW ABOUT COMIN IN FOR A FEW MINUTES?
IT'S TERRIBLY LATE' THANKS A LOT FOR CONVOYING ME HOME."
ETTA? I THOUGHT I HEARD YOU COME IN." HOW WAS THE MILITARY BALL?
TERRIFIC!
I HAD TO COME HOME WITH WHEEZEY - ACE STOOD ME UP FOR ELLAMAIRY!"
NOT THE GIRL HE'S ENGAGED TO? HOW DID SHE GET HERE?
IT'LL SLAY YOU - SHES THE COLONEL'S DAUGHTER!" WELL - SHE CAN'T DO THAT TO ME!" THE BATTLES ON, - WITH NO HOLDS BARRED."
HI, ACE'
HELLO AVIATOR." AREN'T YOU OFF THE BEAM?
HOW ABOUT SEEIN YOU FOR A FEW MINUTES - ALONE? IT'S ABOUT LAST NIGHT'
LAST NIGHT? OH YES THAT'S THE EVENING AFTER THE NIGHT BEFORE'
LET'S HAVE THE BIZ'
YEAH' WHAT'S COOKIN?
AW-BUT I CAN'T TALK WITH ALL THESE GUYS HANGIN AROUND WITH THEIR EAR-PHONES ON!
TAKE OFF FELLAHS!
LOOKS LIKE WE'RE GETTING THE OLD BRUSH OFF'
DON'T BE SORE, SWEET-STUFF." I'M SORRY THAT I STOOD YOU UP AT THE DANCE LAST NIGHT
HOW'S DEAR ELLAMARY ??
IF ELLAMAIRY THINKS SHE CAN KEEP ME AWAY FROM YOU SHE'S WACKY." WE BELONG TOGETHER - LIKE HAM AND EGGS SUDS AND PRETZELS'
BUT YOU'RE ENGAGED TO HER - SHES PRACTICALLY GOT YOU ON A LEASH!"
I'LL BREAK OUR ENGAGEMENT.' AM I A MAN OR A WORM?
HEY LOOK." ISN'T THAT THE COLONEL'S DAUGHTER?
IT AIN'T GRETA GARBO!
A MAN OR A WORM? HE'LL FIND OUT WHEN I MAKE HIM CRAWL BACK TO ME!
FATHER, YOU'RE HEAD OF THIS FLYING SCHOOL - WILL YOU DO ME A BIG BIG FAVOR?
ANYTHING WITHIN' MY POWER, MY DEAR."
AND DAD YOU'VE SIMPLY GOT TO HELP ME GET ACE AWAY FROM HER." HE'S OVER THERE NOW!
PUT LIEUTENANT MILLER ON THE PHONE." HAR-UUMPH!
HE SAYS IT'S THE COLONEL."
HI YA, COLONEL! HOWS THE BIG NOISE? GO FRY YOUR FACE."
SOME OF THE FELLAHS TRYING TO PULL A GAG ON ME." PRETENDING THEY WERE THE COLONEL."
WHO'D FALL FOR THAT OLD TRICK."
GUARD." BRING IN LIEUTENANT MILLER." IF YOU HAVE TO DRAG HIM!
YES SIR."
WONDER WHO THAT WAS ON THE 'PHONE, TRYING TO KID ME INTO THINKING IT WAS THE COLONEL CALLING!
AND DID YOU TELL HIM."
YOU LIEUTENANT MILLER? THE COLONEL WANTS TO SEE YOU." LETS GO."
JEEPERS." THEN IT WASN'T A TRICK!
STEP ON IT, CHUM." TAKE YER BRAKES OFF."
GUESS I CAN'T KEEP THAT DATE WITH YOU TONIGHT, SWEET-STUFF' HAL WANTS TO TAKE ME TO THE DANCE NEXT FRIDAY, OR WILL YOU BE OUT BY THEN?
